GALVESTON ISLAND A CHARNEL HOUSE

Pestilence Has Come to Swell the Storm's Horrors; Disinfectants Are Now the Greatest Need.

From a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 14.—No pen can describe the horrors which the Post-Dispatch correspondent witnessed in Galveston. Words cannot tell the story of the great charnel house. Notwithstanding the herculean work being done the conditions are almost worse than on the day following the disaster.

The smoke of bonfires charged with the odor of burning human flesh fills the air. The flight from Rome is made trivial in history by the frenzied but vain efforts of the people to escape from this living tomb. Pestilence has come to add to the awful series of calamities. The stench of death envelops the city and the demand for disinfectants is more imperative than that for food.

In a list of things most needed sent out by the citizens' committee today "lime" heads the list. Carbolic acid came next. Several carloads of lime are known to be approaching, but several train loads is needed to save the lives of those compelled to remain here. Urge this fact on the public.

Four hundred more bodies, mostly of women and children, have been given to the flames. They were unrecognizable and a horror to the eye and nostrils. Many were gathered from the surf, others were found in the wreck of homes and still others in the sandy wastes where once stood the best residences in the city.

The odor of burning flesh has been added to the horrors, but there is no other feasible disposition of bodies. Decomposition has advanced to such a state that handling the dead for any time is impossible.

Hundreds of the bodies which were taken out on barges and thrown into the sea are floating back, not having been weighted. They are in an indescribable state.

Lack of Water Causes Suffering.

The food supplies received from the outside are serviceable only in preventing starvation, and the waterworks, which were thought to have been thoroughly repaired, have broken down, and thousands are suffering severely from lack of water.

The soldiers are breaking down under the strain of constant and exhausting labor, and fever is appearing in many parts of the city.

Reinforcements of troops have been called for to aid in repressing rioting, looting and vandalism, which break out at intervals and are repressed with difficulty.

Thousands are anxious to flee, but are prevented from doing so by the inadequacy of the means of communication with the outer world.

Scenes on the Dead Line.

The scenes at the dead line across which no man can pass into Galveston are heartrending. Five hundred frenzied men, women and children are there, vainly begging for permission to enter the city to hunt for their loved ones.

Interspersed among these are charlatans and buzzards bent on reaching the stricken city to ply their nefarious trades. It is amazing how little some of these vicious ones have learned from the shotgun methods invoked by the authorities. More than 100 men have been shot for looting, 75 of whom were negroes.

In the case of negroes the death penalty was summarily executed. The whites were court-martialled, but in every case death was the penalty. One white member of the Houston Light Guards was caught robbing a dead body. He was court-martialled and shot by a detail of his own company.

But under the martial law, as rigorous as in war time, a cordon of United States regulars and Texas volunteers is thrown around the city. Every avenue of entrance, in other words, every boat that ran from the mainland, is strictly guarded.

Some of the best informed residents of Galveston, who have been over all portions of the city, estimate that two square miles were swept of habitations. From this it will be seen how utterly impossible it is to compile a list of residences destroyed. It can be said that not one Galveston home escaped without damage. Those people whose houses are still on their foundations, with fences carried away, shutters torn from their fastenings and contents of the rooms water-soaked, are considered very fortunate by neighbors who have lost all or nearly all.

The Galveston people were wont to point with pride to a wagon bridge which connected the island with the mainland. They claimed it was the longest wagon bridge in the world. The distance across was two and one-lighth miles. The cost was $365,000. The destruction of the wagon bridge is considered almost total.

The railroad bridges are found to be in much better shape than it was thought. The greater part of the piling of the three bridges owned by the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe, the Galveston, Houston & Henderson and the Galveston, Houston & Northern, is intact. The stringers, however, have been carried away. The drawbridges are gone.

Some of the Destroyed Buildings.

Galveston had a collection of school buildings, public and private, which were unsurpassed for solidity and architectural finish by any city of its class. An examination of the public school buildings shows that scarcely one is fit for use and that most of them are in an unsafe condition. The Ball High School, the Rosenberg, the Ball District School, the Rosenberg Avenue, the East L. School, the Avenue K School, then Denver Resurvey School, all sustained serious damage. The only educational institute in the city that is safe and fit for use with comparatively small repair is the Ursuline Academy.

The churches suffered severely, although most of them were quite substantial. St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Baptist Church, Trinity Episcopal, the Fourth Presbyterian, St. Mary's Cathedral, St. John's Methodist, the Seamen's Bethel and two other churches on Broad, between Twenty-first street and Tremont, sustained either total destruction or such damages that they will have to be practically rebuilt.

Grace Episcopal Church in the West End, which was one of the many benefactions of the late Henry Rosenberg, escaped with little injury.

Restoring the Sealy Hospital.

The charitable institutions of the city were upon the same costly and elaborate scale. Here, too, the losses were very heavy. Sealy Hospital was one of the gifts to Galveston of the late John Sealy. It was the largest hospital in Texas. Very serious damage was sustained.

Almost the first work of restoration on any public structure was at the Sealy Hospital. The citizens committee realized the urgent necessity of getting the hospital or at least some parts of it in shape to receive the maimed and the sick.

The medical department of the University of Texas included what was known as Breckenridge Hall. This hall was the gift of Mr. Breckenridge of San Antonio. It was seriously damaged.

The Old Women's home on Rosenberg avenue is a complete ruin. St. Mary's Infirmary on Tenth and Market streets was destroyed.

The Ursuline Convent at Avenue N and between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-seventh streets, is now a haven of refuge for 500 houseless people.

The E. S. Levy office building at Market and Tremont streets was considered a marvel of the town. This building withstood the storm, and the people, among them some of the leading business men, escaped by staying in their offices.

The Marx & Blum building, Twenty-fourth and Mechanic streets, was one of the large commercial structures. It was occupied in part by the Galveston Hat and Shoe Co. The damages to the building and the stocks are placed now at $75,000.

The Clark & Courts building, on another corner of Twenty-fourth and Mechanic, sustained a loss to building and stock of $40,000. The Galveston Cotton and Woolen Mills suffered to the amount of $75,000. The Galveston Bagging Factory was damaged $15,000. The Galveston City Railroad powerhouse was demolished, and it is estimated that $100,000 will be required to restore the plant.

There is this to be said about the business structures:

While they did not suffer the total destruction that occurred in so much of the residence section, and while they are still standing, not a few of them were so badly injured that they will have to come down.

The Elevators Destroyed.

Galveston had a gigantic elevator interest which had developed with the growing grain trade.

Elevator A, at Fourteenth street, was one of the largest in the world. Its capacity was in excess of 1,500,000 bushels. All of the upper works of the elevator are gone.

Elevator B, at Twenty-seventh street and Bay Side is damaged in about the same way as Elevator A.

In the elevators and on cars at the time of the storm there were 1,250,000 bushels of wheat. Examination of the bins shows that the water soaked in, about 12 inches, and was then absorbed by the swelling grain. If the elevator machinery can be put in operation speedily much of the wheat may be saved.

United States Quartermaster Baxter wants to abandon the fortifications at Fort Crockett, San Jacinto and Travis, as they were destroyed and cannot be rebuilt on the present site. He telegraphed the War Department:

"I fear Galveston is destroyed beyond all hope of recovery."

Upon Galveston Island the Government has made progress toward the construction of sea coast defenses. Fort Crockett, named after the famous Davie who lost his life in the Alamo, was to have been one of the finest fortifications and posts on the coast. It occupied a hundred acres of what was known as the Denver Resurvey in the west end of the city, the extension of the most recent suburban growth.

San Jacinto was located at the east end, overlooking the jetties and the approach to the harbor. It was to be a fortification with some of the heaviest guns in use for sea coast defense. They were not so extensive as at Crockett. At the latter place the main body of troops was to be quartered.

When it is stated that the Government had already expended about $1,200,000 on these new works, some idea of the storm's devastation can be formed. Quartermaster Baxter's recommendations gain added interest from figures. The purpose was to expend as much more.

Fort Crockett was to have a splendid parade ground. The plans of the Government engineers contemplated the raising of the ground upon which some of the buildings and guns were to be placed full 16 feet above the surrounding sands. The site was to be terraced. JOHN FAY.

LIKE A HERMIT CITY OVERTHROWN

ON BLEAK AND DESOLATE SANDS LIE THE RUINS OF GALVESTON

2701 KNOWN DEAD

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 14.—The Post today prints a list of 2701 names of the Galveston dead, compiled from various sources, but believed to be authentic.

There are hundreds of bodies burned, buried at sea and in the sand, of which no identification was possible.

There were other hundreds who were buried on the beach of the mainland, few of whom have been identified.

There are many bodies still in the ruins of Galveston and scattered along the beach of the mainland and in the marshes, where they were thrown by the water.

Some of these bodies have been sent twenty miles inland along small water courses by the rush of high waters.

Taking all things into consideration, there seems no longer any doubt that the number of dead will reach beyond the estimate of 5000, which has been made by Mayor Jones, Maj. P. G. Lowe and other reliable citizens of Galveston.

PESTILENCE THREATENS THE LIVING

From a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 14.—Victor Hugo wrote that the French army at Sedan was pounded to pieces in a mortar. The City of Galveston was ground to fragments by a hurricane upon a sandbar.

The utter isolation of this fallen city is beyond expression. It seems out of the world. Coming down from Houston by rail one strikes the dreary flats covered with brown grass thirty miles inland. Even before the storm these flats must have appeared unspeakably desolate. There are no trees. It is a barren, uncultivated waste at its best. At its worst, swept over by salt sea and hurricane wind, it is a region of the realm of hell, if hell be solitude and desolation.

All the way down to the shore of Galveston Bay this bleakness continues, increasing as the coast is approached. In the storm the few houses that stood on the mainland coast disappeared, enhancing the loneliness of the region.

Four miles across the Bay os Galveston Island, upon the eastern end of which the lost city lies in silence and alone.

Looking over to Galveston from the mainland one is constrained to think that God never intended that a city be built out on that low-lying strip of sand.

LIKE A HERMIT CITY IN THE SEA.

It is so far away from the world it is the hermit city, the recluse among human habitations. To one who has made the tedious trip down from Houston it is not strange that Galveston has been cut off from the rest of the world for several days. The wonder is that it can be approached from the land at all. Seen from the mainland shore, it appears to be a city springing up out of the dreary waste of sea. No land is visible. Only the jagged walls of the houses on the end indicate that there is anything set there other than leagues of sea.

Situated on a flat, apparently flush with the surface of the water, Galveston's only outlook landward is another flat extending thirty miles toward Houston. One feels that it is the inevitable place for a disaster such as that which has lain the city low, the most stupendous tragedy of modern history. One feels that nature prepared this place that might and majesty, and elementary wrath, might be shown in the annihilation of the puny handiwork of man.

Last Saturday three railroad bridges and one wagon bridge spanned the three miles of salt water between Galveston and mainland. Now these bridges are obliterated and the ruins of the city are like an ancient hermit site on the desolate sands, cut loose from the world of life and joy.

But once in the city, the traveler is amazed at the magnitude and metropolitan aspect of the place, still evident, despite the fact that it is a ruined waste as the crumbling coliseum shows that once a magnificent structure stood upon the site in Rome, so the dismantled walls of Galveston tell the stranger that here a splendid city stood, and a progres-sive people dwelled. And this knowledge but intensifies the pity of it all, that a beautiful city should be stricken down in one dreadful night by a sudden inrush of sea and onslaught of wind, even as Pompeii of old was stricken by a flod of molten fire.

GALVESTON IS NOW THE FORBIDDEN CITY.

Galveston, since the storm's havoc, has been the forbidden city. Under martial law as rigorous as in war time, a cordon of United States regulars and Texas volunteers has been thrown around the city. Every avenue of entrance, in other words, every boat that runs from the mainland, is strictly guarded. Adjutant General Scurry of Texas, who is in command, issued orders that no one be allowed to enter the city. This fact was unknown to the 200 anxious relatives of Galveston people who rode down from Houston on the first train to complete the trip to the Gulf coast since the storm. From all parts of the United States these men gathered Tuesday in Houston, their hearts heavy with anxiety for loved ones. Some had read in the papers the names of their relatives among the lost; others had read them in the list of survivors. But the majority know not whether those dear to them are living or dead.

It was learned in Houston that unless the mayor of that city granted a permit no one would be admitted to Galveston. Consequently there was a rush of applicants for permits at the committee rooms and each person to whom a permit was granted had to swear that he had a wife, sister, mother or daughter in the stricken island city.

When the train was made up at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the International and Great Northern Railroad depot the coaches were guarded by regular soldiers, the captain inspecting each man's permit before allowing him to enter. Those who had failed to procure a permit were refused entrance without exception. The train ran on the I. G. & N., 45 miles south and thence to Texas City on the Gulf, over the Galveston, Houston and Henderson Railroad.

The last ten miles were run at a snail's pace. A gang of track repairers preceded the train and made the track passable. It required five hours to run the 50 miles. At Texas City the steamboat Lawrence was waiting. Dismantled Galveston was seven miles away across the placid bay.

The hearts of the home-comers, many of them homeless, now throbbed with fear and hope as the tired travelers gazed upon the ragged ruins of the once beautiful city. In half an hour they would be there to clasp loved ones to their bosoms or learn that they were among the lost. An eager rush was made for the boat pier.

"NO MAN CAN ENTER THE CITY."

A beardless youth from Houston, Lieut. Hutchinson, who was in command, sang out: "I have orders from Gen. Scurry not to permit any man to enter the city." This was a bombshell. A hundred men waxed angry and a dozen cussed the young lieutenant. Another hundred were silent and sorrowful.

"I am only obeying orders," said the lieutenant, "You cannot enter Galveston—not a man."

Pleas and threats were not of avail. The lieutenant could give no explanation except that no more men were needed to bury, burn or submerge the countless dead. There was no need for anyone.

There was lack of water. It was the General's orders, and martial law reigned.

"My wife and five children are somewhere here if alive," pleaded W. A. Hudson, who turned back from a trip to New York.

"My daughter is dead," said J. H. B. Adams of Malvern, Ark. "Here is her name in the list."

"You cannot bury your dead," said the lieutenant. "They are not recognizable. The living are being cared for. You cannot go in."

"The lieutenant is only obeying orders," said Congressman R. B. Hawley of Galveston, who was in the party. "But we will see what we can do."

It was suggested that Mr. Hawley be allowed to go in as a committee to plead for the admission of the others. The officer consented and the congressman boarded the boat and sailed away. The disappointed ones remained on the shore in the fierce heat of the sun, the sickening stench of dead bodies in their nostrils.

Some declared that they would buy or steal boats and go in.

"If you do you will be shot dead before you land," the soldiers told them.

From noon until 4 o'clock the men remained in the vicinity; boats came from Galveston and landed crowds of hungry, ragged refugees, some of them wounded and bandaged, many sad eyed and hopeless, others laughing light-hearted. These latter were among those who had lost none from their family circles. Most of the men who came down from Houston had brought rations, having been warned that they could not enter the city unless they carried their own subsistence.

Some had water canteens and bottles. Luncheon was shared with the hungry refugees. When the water supply rran out a broken pipe was seen sticking out of the ground from which flowed brackish water sadly suggestive of the rotten carcasses strewn about.

The thirsty mortals drank this nauseating liquid until their bellies ached and their throats tasted of the aroma of rotten eggs. Finally an officer landed at Texas City and announced that under certain conditions the men could come in.

"You will be put under shotgun guard the moment you land," said he, "and be compelled to work. You will have to handle corpses. If you want to go to any part of the city to look after your relatives you may do so under shotgun guard."

"To hell with your shotguns," cried one of the men. "We will go in under any conditions and chance it. We want to find our folks." Each man was rigidly examined as to whether he had relatives in Galveston. The permits had been taken up on the train.

FINALLY STARTED ACROSS THE BAY.

Some were refused, but after a tedious parley about 70 men were permitted to board the schooner Rapello, a two-master. In a fine breeze the Rapello set sail. She beat to windward for half an hour, advancing three miles toward Galveston. Then suddenly she became becalmed and without a breath of breeze stopped in the middle of the bay. Night fell and the few faint lights of Galveston flickered through the haze. Once more nearly home the travelers waited and waited. The elements had conspired to keep them out of the forbidden city. Hungry and thirsty the passengers laid down upon the dirty deck and slept or kept vigil seated on the taffrail, the sailors told them of the horrible stenches in the city, the shooting of ghouls who robbed the dead, the suffering of the injured, the dazed despair of the survivors, who awaited their coming, many of the men having sent messages by Congressman Hawley.

At daybreak Thursday a breeze arose and the party was landed in Galveston.

It is pitiful to behold the refugees who wait on the mainland at Texas City for a train to take them to Houston where the living would begin. Most of them carry no baggage. They have lost all. A few are fully dressed, but the majority are clad in scanty attire. Some men wear only undershirt and trousers. The family of Michael Megna enlisted the sympathy of all. With his wife and two children this once prosperous man was setting out to begin life anew, absolutely destitute. Megna was bareheaded. He wore an old blue shirt and a pair of torn trousers. They were short enough to reveal the absence of socks above his rough shoes that plainly were cast offs. He carried a bareheaded child. Mrs. Megna also was beareheaded. She wore a cheap lawn wrapper and carried another child. She was a handsome young woman. A man from Houston gave her a yachting cap. Another man gave her husband a skull cap. They were hungry, and the incoming travelers gave them food. Megna said that he had lost mother, brother, two sisters and one child. Their house had been swept away in 20 feet of water. The survivors had clung to the wreckage and were cast up on the roof of another several blocks away.

THE EXPERIENCE OF ONE IS THAT OF MANY.

Halfdan Nelson, a youth of 21, made his appearance at Texas City seeking to return to Galveston. His sole dress consisted of a ragged undershirt and drawers. He was baked to a boiled lobster redness by the sun. Nelson told his story to the Post-Dispatch correspondent: "When my house washed away I caught hold of a small plank and floated out onto the Gulf of Mexico. I floated about ten miles south when a cross current caught me and turned my course.

"After a terrible experience I was cast up on the land several miles northwest of Galveston. I was several miles inland amid wreckage, but the water was still four feet deep.

"I climbed into a small cedar tree to escape injury and waited until the water receded Sunday morning. I was as naked as on the day I was born.

"My clothes had all been torn off by the waves. I killed several big snakes that had taken refuge in my tree.

"Dead bodies, human and brute and fowl, were all around me. I climbed down from my tree naked as I was and walked 15 miles across the flats. Finally I hailed a farmer's wagon. The farmer took me in and when we got near his house he went ahead and brought me these underclothes. Then I went to his house and got something to eat.

"I have been wandering around ever since trying to catch a boat back home to see if the other folks are all right."

About 3000 refugees left Galveston yesterday and were taken to Houston on slow trains. Many waited all night on the beach without shelter, food or water.

GRAVE MOUNDS ON THE BEACH

Marked by Small Boards They Indicate Where Seventy-Five Bodies Were Buried.

GALESTON, Tex., Sept. 14.—The work of disposing of the dead continues. Several hundred bodies are still buried beneath the wreckage. Thirty-two sand mounds marked with small boards attract attention on the beach near Twenty-sixth street and tell the story of where about 75 bodies have been laid to rest. In the extreme western part of the city about sixty bodies were cremated with wreckage of the homes of the unfortunate victims.

THE LOSS WILL BE ABOUT $40,000,000

Galveston Official Adheres to the Belief That the Dead Will Number 5000.

From a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

GALVESTON, Sept. 14.—Startling indeed were the developments today. The chairman of the committee appointed to visit Austin and personally describe the situation in Galveston to Gov. Sayers, told me that he estimated the property loss here at $40,000,000, or almost twice as much as any estimate heretofore given.

Three of the leading men of Galveston left late this afternoon for Austin to confer with Gov. Sayers regarding the situation here. They were Maj. J. D. Skinner, commission merchant and acting president of the Cotton Exchange; Thomas Goree, treasurer of the Texas Land and Lumber Co., and Frank M. Spencer, a prominent corporation attorney. These gentlemen were appointed to act as spokesmen for Galveston in her dire straits. The relief committee had received a telegram from Gov. Sayers asking that a delegation of citizens be sent to him at Austin to describe conditions as they really were.

Just prior to their departure I asked them for statements giving their estimates of the losses to life and property, and their opinions as to the situation.

"I think that 5000 people or more were lost in Galveston proper," said Maj. Skinner. "The loss was much greater when the territory adjacent to the city limits is taken into consideration. As to the property loss I am convinced that $40,000,000 is a conservative estimate.

"There is not a sound building in the limits of the city. All will have to be condemned and torn down. The stocks carried by the merchants and in the warehouses were either totally destroyed or badly damaged. The losses on cotton and grain are particularly heavy. Cotton was washed to sea and scattered over miles of territory, and much of the stock of grain on hand in the elevators is ruined.

"I am sure that $40,000,000 will prove a conservative estimate." All of them saw a future for Galveston. The banks were solvent and paying all checks presented.

"But," they said, "aid from the outside world is most urgently needed. Disinfectants, food, gasoline stoves, gasoline, oil and bread are prime necessities. The citizens of the outside world have been most prompt in their response to our call for help, and we need all the help we can get.

"Another change in policing the city has been made. It has been decided that the city will not pay laborers for cleaning the city. There is not money enough on hand to permit such a course. Labor will be pressed into service by the military."

J. G. Stewart, in charge of grain elevator buildings, reports the grain in elevators is only damaged 2 per cent.

THE MOST PRESSING NEEDS.

Message to the Nation Sent Out by Galveston, Relief Committee.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 14.—The following is sent out by the Galveston relief committee:

Our most present needs now are disinfectants, lime, cement, gasoline stoves, gasoline, charcoal furnaces and charcoal. Nearby towns also may send bread. For the remainder of our wants, money will be most available, because we can make purchases from time to time with more discretion than miscellaneous contributors would exercise. We have to report that we are bringing order out of chaos and again offer our profound gratitude for the assistance so far received.

INCIDENTS OF HEROISM; FREAKS OF THE STORM

Pathetic Stories of Courage and Suffering Told of Many of Galveston People.

From a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 13.—When the storm began the brave sisters of the orphan asylum gathered their frightened little broods together to die or be saved, as fate willed it. The children were divided into bunches and tied to each other with ropes. Then to each bunch a sister with heroic determination linked herself by a double rope.

There the little band stood while the wind and waves screamed about them. Each sister held a crucifix, each child a string of beads. They did not have to wait long. A mighty rush of water all but swept the asylum into splinters. Ninety-nine good sisters and their charges went to death. Two of these bunches were found under the wreckage today. In each case eight children had been fastened together and with each bunch was the dead sister.

WHAT TWO WOMEN DID.

Mrs. Bergman, wife of Manager Bergman of the Houston Opera House, was summering in a cottage on Rosenberg avenue, two blocks from the beach. At 10 o'clock last Saturday night the water was up about three feet and she donned a bathing suit and proceeded to the Olympia Theater to talk over the long distance phone to her husband at Houston. At the Olympia she was waist deep in water.

At 2 o'clock the water about the house was so deep that she became alarmed, and, in bathing suits, she and her sister left the cottage they occupied. The neighbors living in the next house, old residents, laughed at them. But of that family of fifteen only three were saved, and these because they were downtown.

Mrs. Bergman and her sister started for the central telephone office, the water being breast deep. Both are expert swimmers, and they buffeted the winds and waves for several blocks.

Finally they spied a negro with a dray. They chartered him for $2 to take them to the central telephone station. After proceeding two blocks the mule was drowned and all were washed off the dray, the negro being lost.

Mrs. Bergman and her sister, by wading and swimming, reached the telephone station and found refuge until the firemen commenced to bring dead bodies into the building. Then they concluded to go to Belton's livery stable, where Mr. Bergman kept his horses.

This was the hardest part of the trip, although the distance was only 600 yards. It was in the heart of the city and glass, bricks, slate and timbers flew in showers. At Belton's they remained until next morning.

At 6 o'clock Sunday morning, the storm having abated, they started back to their home. Not a vestige of it or of the houses for blocks were left. A hitching post alone marked the spot. Going back they encountered scores of dead bodies and met men, women and children, maimed and bleeding, homeless and bereft of family.

It was an awful night and day they put in, with nothing on but bathing suits and nothing to eat. Passing a store they saw the plate glass windows broken and the floor awash with goods. Taking some of these and procuring scissors at the stable, and needles and thread, they soon improvised gowns. They they went to Houston.

HURRICANE'S STRANGE FREAKS.

One of the strangest incidents of the storm is the passage of an ocean steamship from its place at the wharf at the east end of the city around the bay side and down through two of the bridges. The ship went broadside, carrying as much of the bridges as it required to go through.

The captain says that the ship was carried with such force that when it struck those bridges there was no shock appreciable. He did not realize that the ship was striking anything at all until after he was able to see out and found that it had gone through.

Another remarkable thing about the force of the storm was that it carried great steamships in different directions. For example, the Kendall Castle, an English ship, was swept from pier 53 across Pelican Island and landed on the shore at Texas City. That was a course almost due north. Possibly a dredge may be able to cut a channel which will let the Kendall Castle out of the shoal part of the bay, where it lies high above water.

The Norwegian steamer Gyller is a boat of large tonnage which has been under charter for four or five years by the Texas Star Flour Mills, carrying its products to West Indian ports. It now lies stranded between Virginia Point and Texas City, its course having varied considerably from that of the Kendall Castle. A channel would have to be cut so far to float out the Gyller that there is doubt whether she can be saved.

The British steamer Red Cross went in still another direction, and is now stranded on Pelican Flats.

The Mallory steamship Alamo must have gone about the same time with the Red Cross, for it is jammed up against it, having been carried a full half mile into shoal water. The Red Cross and the Alamo can probably be floated.

The British steamship Taunton was carried in a northeasterly direction up the east bay. It is seven or eight miles from Galveston and in very shallow water. It is likely to remain where it is.

Two other steamers are stranded near Pelican Spit, in the bay. They can be floated. These steamers took directions varying from almost west around to the north and to the northeast, showing how the wind must have varied at the different times when they parted from their moorings.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

Eustace Taylor is one of the best known men in Galveston. He is a wealthy cotton buyer and was one of the first to grasp the magnitude of the disaster and the sorrow that came upon the city standing upon the strand when the sun dawned Monday, Mr. Taylor said:

"Bring me any man who needs money and I will give him until I go broke." Mr. Taylor was asked today for an opinion as to the future of Galveston.

"I think," he said, "that what we have done here in the four days which have passed since the storm has been wonderful. It will take two weeks before we can ascertain the actual commercial loss. But we are going to stay here and work it out. We will have a temporary wharf in thirty days, and with that we can resume business and handle the traffic through Galveston. I think that within thirty days business will be carried on here in large volume.

"I am going to stand right up for Galveston," continued Mr. Taylor, "if it costs me the last cent. With our temporary wharf we shall put from 1000 to 2000 men at work loading vessels. While we are waiting for the railroads to restore bridges and terminals on the island we shall bring business by barges from Virgina Point and load in midstream. In this way we shall not only resume our commercial relations quickly, but we shall be able to put the labor of the city at work."

CLARA BARTON HAS GONE TO THE AID OF GALVESTON

She Passed Through St. Louis Thursday and Will Aid the World and Post-Dispatch in the Work of Relieving the Suffering.

Miss Clara Barton, President of the Red Cross Society, passed through St. Louis Friday at 12:30 o'clock on her way to Galveston, where she will take charge of the distribution of food supplies for the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch. She was accompanied by a corps of Red Cross nurses. She left at 2 o'clock over the Iron Mountain.

From a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Miss Clara Barton and her personal staff left here last night for Galveston to inaugurate the Red Cross work in conjunction with the New York World and Post-Dispatch. They will reach Galveston Sunday. They were accompanied by a representative of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. Howard Talmage, special representative of William W. Howard, general manager of the Red Cross, was a member of the party. Miss Barton and her aids went via Atlanta.

Besides the members of her staff, Mrs. Ellen Spence Mussey, second vice-president of the Red Cross, went with Miss Barton. Mrs. Mussey is the widow of Gen. R. D. Mussey, first counsel for the Red Cross. Miss Barton's staff is composed of trusted and experienced workers—Mrs. E. B. Ward, Miss Agnes Coombes, Mrs. W. H. Sears, Mrs. H. W. Lewis and Mrs. J. W. McDowell.

Miss Barton will be joined by other assistants later.

Despite her 70 years and the labors of many other campaigns, Miss Barton was fired with the enthusiasm of a young girl starting on her first errand of charity. Beneath the pleasant smiles that greeted the large number who went to the train to bid her godspeed was that look of determination and courage that has characterized her noble work in the past.

To a Post-Dispatch and World Bureau correspondent, who bade Miss Barton goodby, she said:

"I must thank the Post-Dispatch and New York World for its courtesy. It was with the greatest pleasure that I accepted the kind invitation to aid the Post-Dispatch and New York World in this noble work it has entered upon. I am taking with me none but trained workers. A better corps could not be selected for the work."

THE POST-DISPATCH PHOTOGRAPHER DID HIS WORK IN WATER WAIST DEEP.

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 12, 1900.

Post-Dispatch, St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Sirs—I send you by mail tonight a lot of views of Galveston, Tex., but they are not what I wanted to send, as I was compelled to discard my large cameras at Texas City, and from there make the trip in a small sail boat, and after reaching Galveston was kept dodging the guards, as everyone was forced to work at the point of a gun. However, I feel certain so far that this is the only lot that has been gotten out of there. Many of these views had to be made in water waist deep. Hoping that they may prove satisfactory, I remain, yours respectfully,

C. R. BLACKBURN.

GEN. SCURRY IS IN COMMAND

For a Time There Was a Conflict of Authority, but Now Order Is Restored.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 14.—A conflict of authority, due to a misunderstanding, precipitated a temporary disorganization of the policing of the city yesterday. It seems that when Gen. Scurry, adjutant-general of the Texas Volunteer Guard, arrived in the city with about 200 militia from Houston, he conferred with the chief of police as to the plans for preserving law and order. An order was issued by the chief of police to the effect that the soldiers should arrest all persons found carrying arms unless they showed a written order signed by the chief of police or mayor giving them permission to go armed. The result was that about 50 citizens wearing deputy sheriff badges were arrested by the soldiers and taken to police headquarters. The soldiers had no way of knowing by what authority the men were acting with these badges and would listen to no excuses. After a hurried conference between Gen. Scurry and Sheriff Thomas it was decided that all deputy sheriffs and all persons appointed as special officers shall be permitted to carry arms and pass in and out of the guard lines. The deputy sheriffs and special and regular police now police the city during the daytime and the militia take charge of the city at night.

EAST ST. LOUIS WILL HELP

Committees Appointed to Solicit Money and Supplies and to Arrange a Benefit Entertainment.

A meeting of the citizens of East St. Louis was held at the city courtroom in the City Hall Thursday evening for the purpose of aiding in the relief of the storm sufferers at Galveston.

Mayor Stephens acted as chairman. Chas. Hesserick was appointed secretary. A committee of three was appointed, consisting of James W. Kirk, D. M. Browning and John Richeson to draft resolutions of sympathy.

While this was being done Mayor Stephens read a communication from the Louisville & Nashville Railway offering transportation for any supplies that may be delivered to the East St. Louis depot for the relief of the sufferers.

A list of members to serve on a committee to solicit supplies and money from the East St. Louis business men was then appointed, as follows:

Anthony Isch, S. D. Sexton, F. Holtes, H. F. Bader, W. J. Brderick, L. Boismenue, W. S. Forman, Henry Albrecht, L. C. Adams, D. F. Davis, T. E. Dillon, J. J. Weis, Henry Sackman, T. J. McDonough, D. B. Beatty, John Nester, George Lotz, J. J. Reader, John Monnahan, Al Keechler, F. Leber, T. J. Daniel, T. L. Fekete, J. J. McLean.

It was decided to give an entertainment next Tuesday night to raise funds for Galveston, but full arrangements have not yet been made.

THREE NEGROES PUT TO DEATH

Hanged to Trees by a Mob in Mississippi.

STORMED THE JAIL AT TUNICA.

THE VICTIMS HAD MURDERED WHITE MEN.

Lynching a Climax to the Intense Feeling Against Negro Desperadoes in That State.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 14.—A mob of between 60 and 100 men broke into the jail at Tunica, Miss., this morning between 1 and 2 o'clock, and took out three negroes, who were strung up to a tree within 100 yards of the jail.

The dead negroes are Frank Brown, who shot Frank Cheshire, a prosperous planter at Oak Landing, about six months ago; David Moore, who shot Dan Bosewell ten days ago, and William Brown, who, together with confederates, shot and cut to death a young white man named Tuck at State Levee about a month ago.

All three were hung to one tree and not a shot was fired into their bodies.

It was a well-organized and orderly mob, and most of the members wore masks. The bodies were allowed to hang to the tree during the morning as a warning to the other negroes.

The lynching is a climax of the intense feeling against desperate negroes, which has been brewing in the neighborhood of Tunica for some months. The outburst came with the murder of Bosewell, who was a well-to-do planter. He became involved in an altercation with the negro Moore and attempted to shoot him, when Moore got his pistol and fired with fatal effect. The town is quiet today and it is thought by the people of Tunica that the lynching will have a good effect.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 14.—The fund for the relief of the Galveston sufferers now aggregates nearly $1,000,000 and it probably will reach $1,500,000 by tomorrow night. Most of this amount is in the hands of Gov. Sayers, who will direct the work of expending it.

WILL WED IN OLD MISSOURI

George Hough of Bridges, Mont., and Miss Anna Miller of Red Lodge Came Home to Marry.

A Montana mining camp is not a pleasant place for a wedding. The old Missouri home is much better.

So think Mr. George Hough, formerly of Kirkwood, Mo., and Miss Anna Miller, formerly of Gallatin, Mo. Mr. Hough now lives in Bridges, Mont. Miss Miller lives in Red Lodge.

Thursday evening Mr. Hough arrived at the home of his father, H. W. Hough, in Kirkwood. Miss Miller at the same time reached Gallatin. On Sept. 25 they will be married at Gallatin.

Then they will go to Kirkwood and visit the groom's parents. From there they will return to the mining camp in Montana, where Mr. Hough holds an important position.

Mr. Hough is superintendent of one of Millionaire Clark's mines. He left Kirkwood eight years ago and went west.

SLIGHT DAMAGE TO GRAIN.

Galveston Elevators Will Be Rapidly Emptied of Their Stores.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 14.—J. C. Stewart, the grain elevator builder, has arrived here, responding to a telegram from General Manager M. E. Bailey of the Galveston Wharf Co. After inspecting the grain elevators and their contents he said that not 2 per cent of the grain elevators had been damaged. The wheat would be loaded into vessels just as rapidly as they come to take it. Ships are needed here at once. Mr. Bailey has put a large force of men to work clearing up each of the wharves and the company will be ready for new business all along the line within the next eight days. The wharves have been damaged very little outside of the wrecking of the sheds. With the wreckage cleared away Galveston will be in as good shape for business as she was a few years before there were any wharf sheds, even in better shape, because there were more piers and better ones.

Supt. Warren of the Houston Direct Navigation Co. stated that the company was not ready for any business at present, as the remnant of its fleet is wholly engaged in the relief work. Twelve of the eighteen barges of the company are lost or missing.

ADMIRAL SICARD IS DEAD

The admiral was in command of the American fleet at Key West when the war with Spain began, but relinquished his command on account of ill health.

PEYTON CLEARS ANOTHER'S HONOR

Confesses a Crime Committed in Mississippi.

ANOTHER HAD SUFFERED.

GEORGE SIMMONS FREED FROM BLIGHT OF DISHONOR.

Drug Fiend Who Has Been a Prisoner in St. Louis Says He Committed a Burglary at Clydesdale, Mississippi.

Harry E. Peyton confessed in Capt. Reynolds' office at the Four Courts Friday afternoon that it was he who had robbed the safe in a big mercantile establishment at Clydesdale, Miss.

This confession will clear the name of George Simmons, a young man of Clydesdale, who has been accused of the crime and who was compelled to leave the home of his childhood because of the shame that had come to his family through his supposed crime.

The confession was made in the presence of Judge Palmer of Vicksburg, Miss., and Attorneys Scott and Quintrell of Clydesdale, and the examination leading up to the confession was made by Capt. Reynolds, Lieut. Johnson and Sergeant Nolte.

At the time of Peyton's arrest in his rooming house on Olive street several weeks ago there were books and other property found among his possessions that indicated that he had been in Clydesdale. Recently letters have been found that corroborate in a large measure the confession that he made Friday afternoon.

Because of the crime that Peyton admits having committed in the south a home has been disrupted. Young George Simmons, who was accused of the crime, is a son of J. L. Simmons, one of the most highly respected men in the section where he lives. His son, George, had been given exceptional educational advantages and when he had finished with his books and schools he had no trouble in obtaining a position with the leading firm of the town in which he lived. He was bright, apt, and made friends with everybody. This caused his rapid advancement.

He held a position of trust when the robbery of the safe occurred. He was the last person in the establishment before the robbery was discovered. It was several days before the finger of suspicion pointed at the young man who had always been reckoned a model in the community. He was taken into custody. His parents and many of his friends firmly refused to believe that he could be guilty of the crime charged. But the links of a chain of circumstantial evidence were made and they fitted his case so nicely that many who at first hooted at the idea of George Simmons being a robber, became satisfied that he was really guilty.

The case was laid before the grandjury. He was given his liberty on a heavy bond while awaiting his trial.

His mother steadfastly refused to believe that George had forgotten all of his early training and had become a thief. She grieved so that her friends feared that she would lose her mind. The sight of her suffering and his inability to say or do anything that would comfort her, though knowing his own innocence, was more than the young man could stand, and he left the home of his boyhood and his whereabouts now are not known.

When the news reaches him, if it ever does, and he learns that he can return to his old home in safety, and that there will be no blot upon his good name, there will be one happy family in Clydesdale.

The Howard Jury Is Ready to Hear the Testimony.

IMPOSSIBILITY.

NO LIMIT.
Though there are limitations
To human strength and power,
And supernatural forces
Are not a human dower,
There is no task too urgent,
There is no feat too great
For him whose hands are willing
And who despises fate.

In the word "impossibility" there are thirteen letters, and four of them are "I's." See?

Yet who cares for that?

Nothing is impossible to the man of willing heart and forceful mind. In St. Louis there was a woman whose maximum monthly earnings during a whole lifetime were only $18 a month; yet, with only that pittance to aid her, she saved a large sum of money and helped carry on a great work, which will make her name remembered in St. Louis when the name of more than one millionaire shall have been forgotten.

Who was this woman?

She was black and ignorant, as far as knowledge of books was concerned, yet she had a sage's comprehension of the meaning and the worth of life. Is not the life story of such a character worthy of your attention? See the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Many a man who was born on a farm, and a very poor farm, at that, has become great, yet few women born under similar environments have risen to wealth and title and to the highest honors which the society of two continents can bestow.

Yet such was the case with two American girls, who were born in what was almost a wilderness. Nobody was poorer than they. They hardly had a whole dress apiece, yet their beauty was such that men, filled with the inspiration of their wonderful beauty, hailed them as queens. Society would not let them rest in solitude, although they had not a dollar. Society took them in hand and sent them to Newport and other fashionable resorts. Their charms were too wondrously beautiful to be allowed

To lie
In cold abstraction's apathy.

Men raved over them, and a millionaire bore one of them away in triumph. A dashing young nobleman claimed the other, and so everybody was happy.

Isn't there a romance of the very first water? And these were American girls—regular American Beauties. The whole story will be related in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch, with pictures.

In St. Louis there is a remarkable old man who has a remarkable way of doing a common thing. He reminds one of Oliver Wendell Holmes' katydid—

Thou sayest such a simple thing
In such a solemn way.

This fine old gentleman, whose family is as well known in South St. Louis as the Courthouse is on Broadway, has just done a most unusual thing, and his example, be it said, might with immense profit be followed by many another man whose estate is worth more than you could calculate in a whole day. The complete story will be told by his son in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

A St. Louisan is about to establish near St. Louis an institution which the United States government has said is a good thing, but which is wholly unknown in this country. The whole system will be explained in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch, and you will learn much about the man himself, who alone is worthy of careful study.

Have you a baby? Are you the sister or the brother of a baby? Are you on terms of intimate acquaintance with any baby? You will learn something to your advantage by reading the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The original of Marks, the lawyer, in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," is still living; yet it has been almost half a century since Harriet Beecher Stowe gained fame as the author of that noted book. See the story in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Above all things, don't forget the remarkable beauty of the Sunday Post-Dispatch halftones, which last week surpassed anything of the kind ever seen in St. Louis. Next Sunday will witness a repetition of this great showing.

UNDERGROUND WIRES.

The terrible accident last week whereby two police officers were killed and several seriously injured is argument enough for the extension of the underground wire system.

The wires should be put in the subways wherever by any means they can, if strung overhead, be crossed with telegraph or telephone wires or otherwise become a menace to human life.

This should be established as a fixed rule and electric companies compelled to observe it. To say that it is impossible is merely to repeat the arguments always heard when a franchised company is required to do anything in the public interest. It is possible and practicable. Humanity and the public safety require it.

American cities thrive on calamity. Tornadoes, epidemics and great conflagrations never crush the American spirit. There will soon be a greater Galveston.

PUGS MUST SHOW VOUCHERS.

Mrs. Corbett has done a notable service to the sporting world and the public in exposing the recent "fake" fights. The gulled people will swallow their chagrin as they swallowed the stories of the battles, for the sake of knowing that in future they will not be so easily taken in.

If the managers of coming events of the kind will co-operate with the public, there will be fights that are genuine. The way to do this is to insist that before a cent of prize money is divided, the combatants show vouchers of the right sort.

Two black eyes, a well-tapped "claret" bottle, a broken finger or two, and a score of beautiful bruises, might be accepted as proper vouchers. On the other side, a sprained wrist, a mangled ear, a broken rib, and perhaps a handful of hair missing might be looked upon as evidence that things had not been "fixed."

And as a further safeguard to the sporting fraternity and the public, let the umpires in future contests be women. It takes a woman to tell when a man is shamming. And she will tell. It was time the gentler sex took a leading part in this industry. The woman has been barred long enough. Now for genuine fights in which the "pugs" are well "done up."

If 134,500 coal miners have to strike for a full dinner pail in a prosperous year, something is wrong. Perhaps the political spellbinders will be able to explain. There is nothing that the spellbinder will not undertake to do in the course of a great campaign.

COEDUCATION MAKING PROGRESS.

Rochester University will this fall admit women students on an equal footing with men.

This, coming so soon after the agitation in Chicago University against coeducation, indicates a progressive spirit.

The case of coeducation cannot be concluded until more experience has furnished the facts needed for a sound deduction. Whether the sexes should be educated in the same or separate schools is a question which cannot be settled offhand nor should it be controlled by prejudices or antiquated ideas.

That there is too much flirting is no doubt true, but perhaps that is, after all, a small abuse of a great good, which can be corrected without abandoning a promising experiment.

Great Britain may well declare that China is asleep. She has forced enough opium upon the Chinese to put a dozen empires to sleep.

MISSIONARY POLICY IN CHINA.

On Sept. 20 representatives of the various missionary societies will meet in New York to decide on the policy to be followed with regard to missions in China after the country has been pacified.

It will doubtless occur to the average layman and unbiased person that a change of policy is much needed. To continue sending women and children to interior points in China would seem to be unwise, in view of what has occurred during the past few months.

However much enthusiasts may be willing to risk martyrdom at the hands of Chinese fanatics, the leaders of the missionary movement have no right to expose women and children to such a fate. And they owe it to the rest of the civilized world to do all that is possible to prevent the recurrence of such horrors as have shocked newspaper readers recently.

The convert made in the vicinity of a treaty port is as valuable from a practical standpoint as the convert made five hundred miles in the interior. And as long as missionary work is needed in and around the treaty ports, where missionaries can be protected, is it not foolish to leave that work undone for the sake of starting mission settlements far away in the interior?

Slow and sure might be taken for a motto in this missionary work. Haste and indiscretion, resulting in the loss of valuable lives, is not sanctioned by the tenets of the Christian religion. Its Great Teacher said to the earliest missionaries: "Be ye, therefore, wise as serpents and harmless as doves."

A St. Louis railroad will next year penetrate the Arkansas apple region and Arkansas zinc will constitute a part of its freight. The world will very soon know much more of Arkansas, and it will be surprised at Arkansas possibilities.

POPULATION OF EAST ST. LOUIS.

East St. Louis has surpassed all other cities in the country except one, Passaic, N. J., in the rate of increase of population since 1890.

From 15,169 in 1890 to 29,655 in 1900 is a growth to be proud of. It indicates a sturdy energy, an intelligent business sense and a public policy which invites industry and enterprise. The percentage, 95.5, is next to the largest yet reported.

But it should be remembered that this growth is proper to St. Louis. The two cities are so closely connected by business interests, interlocked, that the prosperity of one implies the prosperity of the other. In fact, for all practical purposes the two are one.

When the industrial census is published the growth of East St. Louis will appear even more remarkable. Manufacturing plants have been located there in great numbers, attracting a large population of the very best kind.

East St. Louis has every reason to feel satisfied with its development and prospects.

The charge against Special Officer Roemer, that he insulted three respectable women going home from their work, is a serious one. A policeman who would wantonly insult innocent women or who has so little discretion as to mistake innocent women for disreputable offenders is unfit for the force. A policeman cannot be guilty of a graver offense against the proprieties of his position. The only question is one of fact—is he guilty?

ST LOUIS IN THE FRONT.

It is gratifying to know that in proportion to population St. Louis heads the list of cities contributing to the relief of Galveston sufferers.

New York, of course, leads with $134,394, Chicago following with $60,000, while St. Louis is third with $44,000.

The promptness with which this city initiated relief work is a source of pride to every citizen. Within three hours after the announcement came the Post-Dispatch had the movement under way. Citizens promptly took it up and money and supplies were started immediately toward the gulf.

There must be no faltering in the good work. The suffering in Galveston is inconceivable, and for many weeks the homeless people will require the gracious aid of citizens of sister cities. To help in the humane work should be claimed as a valued privilege.

The number of additional merchants finding their way to the St. Louis market will doubtless stimulate our wholesale houses to make themselves better known in every direction. Once fully acquainted with St. Louis, merchants of many states, who have not hitherto been with us, will be steady buyers in this market.

The proximity of the political clubs to saloons ought to bring a good deal of prosperity to the alcoholic trade. The alcoholic element in politics does much to prevent the apathy which sometimes appears in presidential campaigns and which is often bemoaned by leading patriots.

It is doubtful whether many voters will follow ex-Senator Peffer's whiskers into the Administration camp. The only effect of Peffer's appearance there will be to stop the ridicule with which he has been covered in the Administration press.

The Bicycle Decline.

From the Washington Post.

It is estimated from such data as are available that the number of bicycles now in use is less by more than one-half than the total of a year ago. If that be approximately correct, the decline in the last three years must have been about 75 per cent. We believe it has been more than that in this city, for the number visible on the streets and suburban roads is but a small percentage of the maximum exhibit. But the wheel is not going out of use, by any means. It has its place and its mission. It is carrying men and women clerks, mechanics and laborers to and from their daily toil. Who Are Barbarians?

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

In his rather bitter arraignment of the Filipinos, Mr. McKinley, in his letter of acceptance, imputes to them a barbarous desire to loot Manila and make its streets a scene of anarchy. The alleged desire to sack the capital of the Philippines has been insisted upon for nearly two years as proof that the Filipinos were semi-savages and, therefore, unfit to be trusted with the government of their own country. Yet the Filipinos never sacked Manila, while in Iloilo, a city they actually captured, not a dollar's worth of property was disturbed or a life destroyed. Place beside their record, now, that of Englishman, American, Russian and Frenchman at Tien Tsin and say who were the barbarians.

CARE OF LACES.

Iron lace on the right side first, then on the wrong side, to throw up the pattern.

When ironing laces cover them with clean white tissue paper. This prevents the shiny look seen on washed lace.

When putting lace away fold as little as possible. A good plan is to wind it round a card, as they do in shops.

Use corn flour instead of ordinary starch for stiffening laces. This makes them firm and does not dertact from the "lacy" appearance.

Laces and other delicate trifles should be placed in a muslin bag before being boiled. This prevents their getting lost and torn in the wash.

All laces before being ironed should be carefully pulled out, each point receiving attention. You will be repaid for your trouble, as the lace will look twice as nice and last clean a much longer time.

BRAZIL'S COFFEE JAG.

A visitor who returned from Brazil says that the whole country is perpetually intoxicated by coffee. It is brought to the bedside the moment one awakes and just before sleep, at meals and between meals, on going out and coming in. Men, women and children drink it with the same liberality, and it is fed to babies in arms. The effect is apparent in trembling hands, twitching eyelids, yellow, dry skin and a chronic excitability worse than that produced by whisky.

MOUNTAINS OF SONG.

There is more melody in Andreasburg, Prussia, in the Hartz mountains, than in any other town in the world. There 250,000 canaries are annually reared, and four-fifths of them are sent to the United States.

Borroughs: Don't worry. I expect to remember that to my dying day.

SHALL THE ART GALLERY BE OPENED ON SUNDAYS?

Would Increase Life's Tension.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am opposed to opening the Exposition or art gallery on Sunday. If the paintings of Christ by Tissot were alone to be on exhibition I would not object to that, but I believe that Sunday should be kept sacred to rest and religious purposes.

The Exposition is educative in its nature and the people need education, but more than that, they need rest. Life is too full now, else they would have time for seeing such things on the six days of the week, and it seems to me just increasing in a general way the tension under which life is lived by taking Sunday for getting things into it on the plea that there is no time for them through the week. It seems to me like trying to make one wrong right by adding another wrong to it.

I believe there is a spiritual nature in man, and that it is the highest part of his being, and that the time set apart for the needs of that highest part of him is desecrated when taken for educational purposes, important as they in themselves are.

"Will Be a Great Mistake."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As regards the opening of the Exposition on Sundays to view the Tissot paintings, I think it will be a great mistake. The Christian public will be scandalized, the working people will be required to work on the Sabbath, and every man is entitled to his day of rest. So I think it will be a great mistake to open the doors of the Exposition on that day, and hence give my vote against.

"Six Days Shalt Thou Labor."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am morally, politically and religiously opposed to all phases of "Sunday" desecration—therefore of opening the art gallery on that day. "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work," but the seventh—now the Christian Sabbath—shall be a day of rest.

A Pastor's View.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Having been asked to give my opinion concerning the opening of the Exposition on Sunday, I wish to say that I can see no harm in keeping the doors open on said day. On the contrary, give the working people an opportunity to avail themselves of the beauties of the Exposition.

"Keep All Departments Closed."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

By all means keep the Exposition in all departments closed on Sunday if you desire the approval and support of the better classes of people.

AMONG THE WORLD'S WORKERS.

At a recent meeting of the paper hangers' union of Philadelphia a resolution was passed calling for an investigation of the danger of hanging new wallpaper over old. It was brought up after a journeyman had been asked to paper a room in which a man had died of smallpox. They then decided to put it in the hands of the board of health.

The Retail Grocery Employes' Union, No. 424, have changed their meeting place from 1302 Olive street to Shulte's Hall, 2725 Franklin avenue. They have affiliated with the International Retail Clerks' Association. They have secured Sept. 25 as their night at the Exposition. They have 380 members in St. Louis and at their last meeting the following were elected as the executive board: L. A. Woodward, chairman; A. P. Elner, H. A. Jans, A. Wehde, W. P. Busche and H. Kampsmith.

The Fresco Painters, No. 23, accepted 15 applications for membership at their last meeting.

The Rotterdam dock strike is extending, and over 12,000 men are now involved.

The Car and Coach Painters, No. 115, last Tuesday evening absorbed the carriage stripers' association, which will give them an additional membership of 150.

The consolidation of the two painters' unions places 292 local unions under one head, representing 31,291 members. The St. Louis locals express themselves as being well pleased with the settlement, which ends a fight carried on since 1891. The trouble grew out of some financial difficulty.

The fresco painters recently organized a local union in Granite City. William S. de Vaux, general president of the Painters' Brotherhood, is expected here the last of the week to install the officers.

The Fresco Painters Local No. 23 report every member of their local employed.

Vice-President Collis Lovely of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union spent a few days with his family and stamping out some false statements while here.

The Carpenters' Union issued charters to 20 new unions the last month, as follows: No. 621, Bangor, Me.; No. 622, Brewton, Ala.; No. 624, Brocton, Mass.; No. 625, Malden, Mass.; No. 626, Owen Sound, Ont.; No. 27, Jacksonville, Fla.; No. 630, Raleigh, N. The secretary of the Retail Grocery Employes' Union says the object of their organization is at present early and Sunday closing.

The Brewers' International Union are holding their annual convention at Milwaukee this week.

The leather workers on horse goods are on a strike in Wichita, Kan.

The Bakers' Union, local No. 15, have admitted 12 new members the last month. H. Benner, the business agent of the Bakers' Union, says the report that the McKinney Bakery Co. had adopted their label is untrue.

THE DAY'S LOVE STORY

A COUNTRY COUSIN.

"By George, if I hadn't nearly forgotten!" quoth Stafford pere. He rummaged in an inner pocket.

"Can't find the letter. Must have left it at the office. It's from Godfrey Chester. He writes that his daughter will pass through Chicago to-morrow on the way to New York and will spend a few days with us. He says he wishes one of my family would meet her. Bless my soul, here's the letter after all." He put on his spectacles—read aloud: "You can't mistake her. She's a curly-headed little girl in a gray gown and a hat with gray feathers. She's a nice child, and I'll be glad to have her meet your youngsters."

"A child!" groaned Ralph, who was 22 and studious.

"Youngsters, indeed!" cried Dick disdainfully. "Does he take us for kindergartners?"

Ross, who was the eldest, smiled in quite a superior and disinterested fashion. He boasted a flourishing mustache. He was studying law.

"Eh, but one of you must meet the child!" cried the head of the house. "You'll go, Ralph?"

"Can't, sir, I'm doing an article on the architecture of the tenth century. It takes a lot of research. I'll be all morning in the Newberry Library."

"You, Dick?"

"Got a golf match on. Can't make it, sir."

"I wonder now, Ross, if you"——

Ross laughed leniently. "You poor, perplexed old chap! Yes. I'll see that the child gets here all right."

"Good!" said Henry Stafford, with a sigh of relief. "Good!"

But when the western train disgorged its jostling multitude in the Union Depot the following morning Rose Stafford, standing close to the iron gates, found that he had undertaken a task of greater magnitude than he had at the time imagined. Never a glimpse could he catch of a curly headed little girl in a gray gown, wearing a hat with gray feathers. Or—was the dress brown? By Jove! He wasn't even sure of that.

Ross wheeled around. "Well! I'll telephone the folks that she wasn't on. Dad can wire her people and find out—I beg pardon!"

And he suddenly found himself bowing profoundly, hat in hand, before a young woman with whom he had almost collided in his haste.

She accepted his apology with a slight bend of the head—a vivid blush. Half way up the stairs he glanced back, saw her standing where he had left her. He hesitated—went back.

"You are waiting for some one? Can I be of service?"

"Thank you!" Ye gods, what a sweet voice. "I am afraid there has been a mistake. No one has come to meet me. May I ask you to call a cab?"

And when he had done so, when she had thanked him, when he stood bareheaded on the curbstone as the vehicle rolled away, he recollected that he had not listened to the address she had given the driver, and he walked off in a towering rage at his own imbecility.

Tired and disgusted that evening Ross Stafford took a plunge at the athletic club, got himself home, shrugged himself into his evening clothes, for he was going out after dinner, and went down to the parlor to find himself face to face with the divinity of the red-gold ringlets and the violet eyes!

"Ross, my dear," cooed Mrs. Stafford, "let me introduce you to Miss Chester, whom somehow you managed to miss this morning. Why, you"——

For they were smiling at each other—merrily, spontaneously.

"Indeed, no, mother!" Perhaps he held the pretty hand she gave him a little longer than was necessary. "I met Miss Chester this morning. Did she not tell you I put her in a cab?"

Miss Chester laughed. Ross Stafford laughed.

"Lord bless me!" cried Stafford senior, ruffling his hair, "your father said you were a little girl."

"Oh, I shall never be grown up to papa!" cried Miss Chester.

"He said," stammered the young gentleman who was getting up an article on the architecture of the tenth century, "that—that you were a nice child!"

"Don't you think," queried Adele Chester, mischievously, "that I'm nice?"

Whereat Ralph grew guiltily red.

The country cousin of the Staffords did not go East that week—nor the next. When she did go all the mirth and laughter of the Stafford domicile seemed to go with her. One morning a week after her departure Ralph and Dick said some bitter things when they discovered that Ross had found out he must attend to business in New York, and had left for that city on the midnight train.

And when Ross returned, silent, but smiling and exultant, they were not at all backward about telling him with true fraternal frankness their opinion of his conduct.

Ross pulled his mustache.

"I assure you in taking my late hasty trip I had only the best interests of my brothers at heart. My sole ambition was to secure you the most charming sister-in-law in the world!"

He Was Too Fresh.

It does not pay for even so exclusive an individual as a hotel clerk to be too "fresh." A St. Louis hotel clerk had this fact impressed upon him the other day with an emphasis that will not allow it to slip his memory for sometime.

A man stepped into the office where the clerk presided and inquired if there was any mail for him.

"Have you got a room?" demanded the clerk savagely.

"No, sir," replied the man quietly, disdaining to notice the insulting manner of the clerk.

"Well, there ain't any mail here for anybody not a guest of the house," shouted the register genius, as he turned away from the quiet man without searching among the letters. "I tell you that you haven't got any right to have your mail sent here and, if there is any for you, we won't give it to you. That's all."

And the clerk, as though designedly adding insult to injury by treating the man with contempt, turned to his paper. The visitor was not a bit perturbed, however, and it was easy to see that he expected to be master of the situation before the incident should be closed.

"I am sorry if I have been an intruder, and I hope you will accept my apology," he said.

"Well, you have been an intruder, and the quicker you leave me alone the better," was the surly reply.

"Very well. I will go, but, before leaving, I wish to cancel that contract that I made by letter the other day for six rooms for three days for my party."

"Great Scott," exclaimed the clerk, "you're not the man at the head of that excursion party from Mexico?"

"I am."

"I am really very sorry for what I said a while ago, and I hope you will accept my apology."

"No, it's too late for apologies. I won't stay in a hotel where they employ such persons as you. Just consider my engagement of rooms as cancelled without further debate."

And the man gathered his party of a dozen about him and left the hotel.

Most of the incident was witnessed by the manager of the place. As the party filed out of the house he walked up to the clerk and said:

"Charge yourself up with the amount that party would have paid us if it had remained three days."

"What for?"

"Your 'fresh' conduct lost it to the house."

"Doin' All the Shoutin.'"

It was plain the clerk was thinking hard as he entered the charge:

"About nine-tenths of the people on earth are wharf rats if their actions mean anything. They always seem to think they are in a row boat and try to keep as near the stern as possible to make the rowing easier."

Such was the remark of a cranky individual on a crowded Laclede avenue car a few evenings ago.

"Just look at them here," he went on. "If they could they'd stand this car up on end and throw the motorman back over our heads. I'll bet my hat the fore trucks scarcely touch the track. If they do at all it's just because the car has got good springs.

It's just the same everywhere. It would be the same in this car if there were only 10 in it. They'd all watch for a chance at the rear seats.

You notice when you try to get into a bus some day. Every fellow wants to sit as near the door as possible. If you're not the first man in you'll have to climb over the other fellows' feet to find a seat. It's a wonder some people don't bob up once in a while who prefer to run along behind for the mere sake of being behind.

"If it happens to be a carriage with two seats that you're about to get into, probably the fellow you're with will want to scrap with you for the rear seat. He so hates even the thought of being ahead.

"Get out of vehicles and go into a public hall. Every man, woman and child will be making a scramble for the rear seats.

"It doesn't matter whether they can hear or see back there or not, it's where they want to be any way.

"There's only one place I know of, in fact, where everybody doesn't want to be last and that's at a ticket window where they ought to be. There they all rush for first place.

"I guess it's just the perversity of mortals, that all.

"Now, just see all those fellows looking around. They'd like to be back here."

"Faith, sor," shouted a good-natured Irishman from a front seat, "We wuzn't thinkin' o' that at all, at all. We wuz wonthering who wuz doin' all the sphoutin' and considtherin' that he ought to be aridin on the findther."

The cranky man suddenly discovered himself at the home port and disembarked.

Would Be Beneficial to the Public.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I noticed in Sunday's paper, in the "Forum" column, an article headed "Illustrated Lectures in Public Schools," which interested me very much. I believe such a thing would prove very beneficial for the great mass of people in this city. Now that the St. Louis schools have won high honors at the Paris Exposition, it behooves us to improve on our already fine public school system. I sincerely hope this matter will attract the attention of the school board and cause them to take some steps to put it in active operation.

Engagement Ring Experience.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Will the Post-Dispatch kindly suggest that those of its readers who have had an engagement ring at their disposal relate their treatment of the ring or their experience, whether witty or otherwise, when an engagement no longer existed? Please let the subject be open for answer for some days, so we may have the benefit of varied opinions.

Let the men tell also how they have been treated in the ring matter.

Ladies Wish to Hear Bryan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Will you kindly ask the committee having in charge the Bryan meeting for Saturday night to reserve a part of the Coliseum for ladies? I see there are to be reserved seats for organizations, but I have not seen any statement that reserved seats were to be set aside for ladies. I am anxious to hear Bryan, and so are many more.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

LADIES' DAY RACES

THOSE AT KINLOCH PARK COURSE LOOK VERY ENTICING.

NECKLACE AND SEGURANCA.

They Will Be About the Best Favored Ones of the Day and Will Be Heavily Played.

The talent fought the Knights of the Chalk to a finish at Kinloch Park on Tuesday and got away with the decision.

The day in fact was a very good one for those who play them "on the ground."

The Post-Dispatch racing statistician gave Eight Bells, Glen Lake and Early Bird as good things. But why ponder, "as sufficient of the day is the evil thereof," and another thing Friday is ladies' day, and they want some winners.

The card Friday is an exceedingly difficult one to pick from, as 45 horses are entered in the six events.

A dozen maiden 2-year-olds will be jockeyed in the curtain raiser. A whist party of new ones will make their debut in this race. They are of unknown caliber, even to a racing mathematician. Jaunett ran a good third her last out to Donna Bell and Downhearted. On this trial she should win, as she figures a little better than Downhearted, while The Thrush should "peep."

Another full-limit field will parade for the second purse. It is certainly a tough race to figure. Of the lot Canrobert looks to be the best, while Silent Friend and Doralice should fight it out for the place.

The third race should be an admirable one from a speculative standpoint, as the penciliers should slate as good as 4 to 1 and take your pick. Revenue ran a good fourth his last out, defeating Lurgan, Gov. Boyd, Rollins and J. B. S. He led to the paddock. Friday Revenue should be able to dispose of Delsarte and Padrone.

There looks to be but one easy spot on the card, and that is Necklace in the fourth. She should win beyond a question of a doubt. Gray Forge ran an excellent second to Peter Duryea last Monday and he should secure the place from Two Annies.

Seven juveniles will journey seven furlongs in the fifth event. Pirate's Daughter figures the best, while Marcy and Scallion Coat should race the others into submission.

The day's sport will wind up with a six and a half furlong affair. Segurança fell to her knees the last time she started, and had it not been for the accident she would have won. Friday she looks like a good thing. Percy R. and Monoghan should be the contenders.

RACING IN CALIFORNIA

The Ingleside Race Track Not Yet Leased to Prince Poniatowski.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—The stockholders of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, after voting to conditionally lease the ingleside track to the San Francisco Jockey Club, Prince Poniatowski's new organization, appointed a committee to pass upon terms, and report its recommendations to the main body.

A meeting was held, but nothing was done, and the minority claim that no lease has been determined upon, and that the whole proceeding is irregular and illegal.

Henry J. Crocker has been removed from the directory of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, and Hall McAllister appointed in his place on a showing made to the directors that Mr. Crocker does not now own a share of stock in the club.

Quarterstretch Gossip.

Not since Prince Lief won the St. Louis Derby in 1899 have the Lucky Baldwin colors been seen on a St. Louis race course. On Thursday the Kinloch Park managers received a telegram from Mr. Baldwin, saying that he would be here with his horses on Wednesday next. They have been racing at Chicago.

John A. Morris, considered by many to be the best racehorse now in the West, has reached Kinloch Park from Chicago. He will be raced at Kinloch until the latter part of October, when, with Fred Cook's other horses, he will be shipped to California.

Lige Brewster has brought the Zuehlke string of horses, which included Princess Tatyana, Rollins and other good ones, from Churchill Downs to Kinloch.

Will Darden telegraphed from Chicago Thursday, asking for stalls for his horses at Kinloch Park.

Harry Perry, who has charge of the field-book at Kinloch, is president of the Bookmakers' Association at Chicago.

Louis Cella is booking at Chicago these days and his brother Charley is playing them on the ground at Kinloch.

The irrepressible Virginia Carroll is making book for Fred Cook at Harlem.

C. Gans has arrived at Hawthorne from Saratoga with Tourney, Waterplant and Irish Boy, and will race them during the fall meetings at the Chicago tracks.

Secretary Letcher has sent to the printers the "copy" for the program of the first week of the fall meeting at Hawthorne, opening Monday next.

A rather tall man with sharply cut features stood on the block at Kinloch Park Thursday. He looked like a saint. That was Fred Cook.

A short, fat man, with a roly-poly face, stood on another block, just opposite the other man. That was Mack Moore.

Mr. Cook opened up the betting by offering to lay even money that his horse Small Jack would not win the third race. Mr. Moore offered to bet $100 on Small Jack at that figure. Mr. Cook declined the commission, and then Mr. Moore got mad and used cuss words. Mr. Cook cussed back, and that was the end of it. Such things often happen in the racetrack ring, and the incident is passed up without mention. But things have gone along so smoothly at Kinloch that this little passage on the placid waters out there caused something of a sensation. Nothing came of it, however, for a few moments later both of the principals of the few moments before were guying each other good naturedly.

Searcher, the good 3-year-old owned by Pat Dunne, will hereafter secure a gelding allowance when entered. Under care of Virginia Bradley Searcher will probably be ready to race late this fall.

Speaking of Highland Lad at Hawthorne the other day, Owner Scoggan said: "Last spring this colt showed me that he could give Florizar fifteen pounds and a beating. In training for a one and one-half mile stake Secretary Clark offered to bet me the colt won the first mile in 1:39, but a heavy rain ruined the track and shipment to St. Louis for the Derby seemed to throw him off again. He has one bad leg and may break down any time."

The coming meeting of three weeks at Hawthorne closes the season at the Cicero track and a considerable change will be noted in making up the program books. There will be no more three-horse stake events, the stake features having been discarded and the daily programs will be made up of three or four $400 purses, one $600, one or two $500 and two or three times a week one of $750 will be added for special handicaps arranged to draw out the very best horses. Under this system of dividing the money the fields will not only be larger, but a better class of horses will be entered and started.

The uncertainties of horse racing and the frequent inconsistency of dreams was demonstrated Monday at Harlem when Frond won the steeplechase. Her owner, Gwynne R. Tompkins, on Sunday night dreamed that Negligence had defeated her in Monday's race, and also during his slumbers a funeral crossed his path. In addition to all of these goodies, a cross-eyed man encountered Tompkins Monday in the paddock. That was the limit in his estimation and he said: "If that mare of mine was 1000 to 1 I wouldn't bet $1 on her."

D. J. Sullivan, the well-known politician and owner of Glen Lake, is several thousand dollars richer, so report says, over the victory of his horse in the fourth race at Kinloch Park Thursday afternoon. Mr. Sullivan is said to have played the horse all over the country.

John Murphy, who trains horses for Marcus Daly, the Montana millionaire, is also said to have won a pile of money on Glen Lake's victory. He is said to have played the horse heavily in every poolroom in the West.

Athletic Notes.

The tennis tournament of the High School, which will determine the players to compete in the Interscholastic League tournament, which will be held the last week in September, will take place this afternoon on the courts of the Amateur Athletic Association in Forest Park. If the tournament is not completed Friday afternoon the remaining sets will be played off Saturday morning.

The committee having charge of the athletic carnival to be held at the Exposition this year will hold a meeting at the Exposition at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. The officials for the handicap meet will be selected and other business of importance will be transacted. A full attendance is desired.

The candidates for the football eleven at the St. Louis University are not permitting the grass to grow under their feet, but are spending all of their spare time in practice. Of course no hard work will be done until arrival of Coach Martin Delaney, but the boys are hardening their muscles by systematic work in the gymnasium and light practice on the field. They confine their work on the field principally to passing and kicking.

The football candidates at the Christian Brothers' College spend every afternoon on the broad new campus including in light practice under the supervision of Coach Tom Cox. Cox intends to have his men in the very best of condition at the opening of the season, and if hard, systematic work and sensible practice count for anything the King's highway eleven will be better than ever.

Faust Cup Race Sunday.

The race for the Faust cup will be rowed on the river next Sunday. Every club in the harbor has been invited to send representatives, and all of the clubs with the exception of the Mound City are expected to be represented. The race will start promptly at 3 o'clock. The race will be a mile and a half up stream, with the start from the head of Arsenal Island and the finish in front of the Western Rowing Club's boathouse.

The Mound City Club has sent out notices calling a meeting of representatives from all of the clubs to select officials for the Harlem cup race, which will be held on Sept. 23. The meeting is to be held next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and complete arrangements for the contest will then be made.

Banner Coursing Event for St. Louis.

The St. Louis Coursing Club received notice Thursday to the effect that the Waterloo cup, the banner coursing event held in America, has been awarded to St. Louis and that it would be held in this city if the proper grounds can be secured. A meeting of the St. Louis Coursing Club will be held Friday evening at the club headquarters in De Hodiamont, when all the arrangements towards bringing the meet here will be completed.

JOCKEY MAHER IS OFF FOR ENGLAND.

Noted Rider Sails on St. Louis To-Day to Pilot P. Lorillard's Horses on English Tracks.

Jockey Danny Maher, for many moons the best race rider on the eastern coast, has sailed for England and will be heard of from now on striving for honors against Tod Sloan, the Reiff brothers and the other Yankee lads who have preceded him to England. Maher is under contract to P. Lorillard and he will ride for the latter on the other side. Maher was the star rider of America in 1898. He won a number of races. His success secured for him a contract for two years at $10,000 a year with the late W. H. Clark. Last year he began the season auspiciously by winning the Brooklyn Handicap with Banastar. He was left at the post with the same horse for the Suburban. This caused a ten-day scandal. Subsequently Clark and Maher broke the contract by mutual consent.

Maher was engaged to ride for "the Master of Rancocas" this season at a large salary. He won a number of races for him, but achieved his greatest success on Ballebert for Perry Belmont. Maher could not make David Garrick, P. Lorillard's best colt, run. The colt would not try his best when Maher had the leg up. Maher hit him, several times, and the colt showed decided antipathy to his horsemanship after that. For Bullman, David Garrick always tried to win. Maher is a clever all-round jockey. He is alert at the post, has good hands, and is clever in placing a horse and can put up a good finish. His one drawback is lack of courage. In a large field of horses he is extremely timid. In England, where the race-courses are wide, Maher will shine to advantage. He hopes to regain his lost prestige among the English turfites.

The Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association Baseball Club and the Reporters' nine will tie up in the final game of the series at League Park Sunday morning. Five games have been played by the two teams, three of which have been won by the Brewers. The final game promises to be the best of the series. Nat Klein will officiate on the rubber for his team in the final contest, while Oscar Miller will perform a like service for the scribes. Quinn and Swancin will be the respective backstops. The teams will line up in this way:

Anheuser-Busch—Quinn c, Nat Klein p, L. Steyermark 1b, Gus Weiss 2b, Baron 3b, Wilcox ss, L. Klein lf, Flood cf, Nagel rf.

Reporters—Swancin c, Oscar Miller p, Smith 1b, Burke 2b, Fisher ss, P. Miller 3b, White rf, Lewis cf, Cochran lf. Umpires—Pat Tebeau and Bill Joyce. The game will be called promptly at 9 a. m.

Questions Answered.

J. E. K.—One man can scarcely hold three fives and a pair of trays and another three fives and a pair of aces out of one pack. Please don't ask nonsensical questions.

C. P. Van.—According to reports of those who saw the Corbett-McCoy battle, corroborated by the statements of Mmes. Corbett and McCoy, it certainly does look as though their fight was a fake of the first water. We have no positive evidence on that point.

Wood B.—All members of Amateur Athletic Union are eligible to the St. Louis Exposition games. The entrance fee runs from 50 cents to $1.

A GAME FROM BOSTON

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS AT LAST WIN FROM SELEE'E MEN.

JONES PITCHED FOR OUR SIDE.

The Mound City Team Will Rest Friday and on Saturday Will Meet Champion Brooklyns.

The Cardinals wound up their three days' engagement at Boston Thursday by defeating the Beaneaters in clever style.

The elongated southpaw, Bert Jones, pitched for the locals and it was largely through his splendid twirling that the Cardinals were returned winners. His support however, was admirable. The final score was 6 to 4.

Manager Heilbroner and his charges hied themselves to New York Thursday night.

They have an open date Friday, meeting the champion Brooklyns on Saturday in the first game of the final series of four games. It is to be hoped that the local club will put up the article of ball that characterized their playing in the final game at Beantown, when they tie up with Hanlon's aggregation.

They have always played bangup ball against the champions, and have invariably forced the superbas to play first-class ball to beat them. Jones, Hughey and Young have at times proved to be enigmas to the prospective second-time pennant winners, and should they manage to again defeat Brooklyn, Pittsburg's pennant chances will be considerably increased.

The champions increased their lead over the Pirates Thursday, when they walloped the aggregation from Porktown in two games. Pittsburg, on the other hand, dropped down a notch, by losing to the Phillies through the ineffectiveness of Twirler Chesebro.

Hanlon's pets have two more games to be played with the Reds, one of which is scheduled for Friday. It is more than likely that both games will be played Friday, and if so, it is dollars to doughnuts that the "Champs" will be the victors in both contests.

It turns out that Wolverton, the Philadelphia third baseman, was not so badly hurt in his collision with a trolley pole last week. The North American says of the accident: "While Wolverton is somewhat dazed and shaken as the outcome of his trolley pole adventure, he is not seriously hurt, and will soon be able to cavort again. This incident recalls a similar one on the line between Minneapolis and St. Paul a few seasons ago. Tom McGuire, a gigantic shortstop from Valleto, Cal., while enjoying a nickel's worth of scenery, stuck his head out of the car, going 40 miles an hour, and bumped a trolley pole. The impact broke the circuit, blew out the switchboards in both power houses and tied up the system between St. Paul and Minneapolis for 35 minutes. As McGuire got off to look for his hat he said the company should have more sense than to build the poles so close to the track."

Cincinnati leads Pittsburg and Philadelphia in the series with these clubs, and yet New York won 13 games out of 20 from the "Reds." Boston, Brooklyn and New York were the cause of Cincinnati's undoing. Between them they won 40 games from the "Reds," who have lost 22 games to the four other clubs. Brooklyn has yet to play two games with Cincinnati.

Some of the Phillies don't like to see Pittsburg going to the front. They remember how the druthless they received at Pittsburg this year kept them down, and perhaps deprived them of the pleasure of handling nice fat checks from the Philadelphia Club at the end of the season. They can easily figure how they could have held the lead against both Brooklyn and Pittsburg if the Pirates had not been so aggressive.

Brooklyn has accepted the offer of the Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph to play Pittsburg a series of games after the season closes for a cup valued at $500. The receipts of these games are to be divided between the players of the two teams.

In the midst of recent successes Capt. Kerr's rallying cry was, "We want that pennant, and if we can't get it this year, we mean to try harder in 1901."

Under such circumstances, and with the concert of typographical powers a unit loyally pulling for Pittsburg, surely there is ground for mutual congratulations in Smoketown.

If all the Brooklyn players who are going to retire "to go into business" next year make good, Ned Hanlon will have to look around for a new team. Farrell, Daly, De Montreville are about the only men whose names will not be in Dun's and Bradstreet's—to hear 'em talk.

"Judging by the article of ball the Pittsburgers put up here they will either float the pennant of 1900 or else give the Brooklyn the biggest kind of a scare," says the Philadelphia Press.

Speaking of the Pittsburg's trip to Boston last week Tim Murnane says: "The Boston team was overmatched for the first time in many years on the home grounds, and there was no mistake about the superiority of the Smoky City lads when it came to ball playing. There was not a lame wing in the bunch; every man was throwing as if his arm was made to order. The outfielders lined the ball to the home plate as straight as if shot from a gun and nearly as true."

Here is one of the latest from the East about Rube Waddell: "On the Brooklyn grounds there is a hacked post that stands in mute evidence of Waddell's eccentricities. He was on the gate at Washington Park, armed with a hatchet, and at almost every turn of the stile he hurled that tool at the fence, while the wonderfing fans who passed in couldn't figure whether they were going to see a ball game or a Wild West show."

Jake Beckley has made up his mind to embark in the bookmaking business this fall, and will make his bow to the public from the block at the Latonia meeting after the close of the baseball season, and if successful will go to California for the winter.

A League official says: "While Pittsburg will quit the season with a good record on the right side of the ledger, Boston and Philadelphia will more than break even, but the five other clubs will be from $10,000 to $20,000 losers on the season. Cincinnati on account of losing a majority of the games at home in the "heat" of the season and burning of their grandstand, will be one of the heaviest losers of the season."

Crawford and Barrett will do for the Reds' outfield for 1901, and Beckley, Irwin, Corcoran and Steinfeldt for infielders, but it looks like as if the Reds will look long before they replace the only McPhee, and will have to strengthen the hitting and baserunning to be figured in the race for the championship next season. Another right-handed pitcher and a batting catcher would help the team wonderfully.

A thief broke into the Chicago American League team's dressing room Thursday. Captain Padden lost his watch and chain and Isbell lost a watch and all the money he had in his pockets. Denzer, Wood, Dilard and Katoll could not find their street shoes and were compelled to wear their spiked shoes home. Katoll and several other players lost small sums of money.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Poor little Joseph Sprague has made a bad start in the world. He is only 10 months old, but is already adrift, homeless and friendless, with every door closed against him.

His mother, Mrs. Mary Sprague, of North Wilna, sold him for $5 to a family of Italians in the neighborhood. He had not been in his new home two days before the family horseshoe fell from its nail. Twice within the same week it was repeated. Then Joseph had to go.

He was given to Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Delaney, who live near Philadelphia. But little Joseph's great eyes followed the movements of the Delaneys about so solemnly and mysteriously that it made Mrs. Delaney nervous, and in three days Joseph was again adrift.

The Delaneys brought him to Watertown and left him at the bureau of labor and charities, where he is now temporarily sojourning in the care of the matron.

AIR BRAKES FAILED

WABASH PASSENGER STRUCK A BUMPING POST.

FRIGHT ALONG THE MIDWAY.

But the Alarm Was Unnecessary as No Damage Was Done Except to the Post.

Passengers of Wabash train No. 23 from Chicago thought for a few seconds Friday that they were in a disastrous collision in the train shed at Union Station.

The train could not be brought to a stand at its usual place, but persisted in ramming against the bumping post on track 7, which is placed there just to prevent obstreperous trains from backing into the Midway.

The cause of the accident was the failure of the air brakes to operate at the proper time. The train was backing at the rate of 15 miles an hour, but, if the brakes had been in order, it could have been stopped easily. When it was 15 feet from the bumping post, the brakeman in charge of the air tubes, seeing they were out of order, leaped on the platform and gave a signal to the engineer to reverse his engine.

This was done immediately, but not before the post had been struck. The noise of the collision was heard throughout the station and caused excitement.

The women on the train screamed and the men braced themselves for additional shocks. When they learned the trouble was over, they laughed at their unnecessary alarm.

The bumping post was wrecked and the track was broken and strained in several places.

A section of the asphalt pavement was destroyed. The damage to the train was slight.

SOFT COAL SHALL NOT BE SUBSTITUTED

Manufacturers Using Anthracite Cannot Buy Bituminous Coal Says President Mitchell.

HE EXPECTS NO CONCESSIONS.

SAYS NOTHING IS APT TO HAPPEN TO PREVENT STRIKE.

The Men Are Prepared for the Struggle and Its Declaration Has Been Approved in Hundreds of Telegrams From Leaders.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 14.—Saturday night President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers' Union will go to Hazelton, Pa., to personally conduct the impending great strike of the anthracite coal miners, called for Monday.

President Mitchell's desk and the desks of his assistants are piled high with telegrams. What they are about no one will say, but they are being answered as rapidly as possible.

President Mitchell declared that no union-mined soft coal will be allowed to be used in place of anthracite when it is exhausted. He declared that manufacturers will be compelled to change their engines.

"The strike will be conducted in such an orderly manner," said he, "that there will be no excuse for calling out the militia, although the Pennsylvania militia is called out on the slightest pretext."

"At this time I do not believe anything will transpire between now and Monday that will prevent the strike. All the information coming into my office predicates that the struggle is practically on. I have been receiving messages all day from the anthracite region, which indicate clearly that indorsement of the strike and the issuance of the order has met with the approval of the miners. There are a few details to be arranged, but the men are prepared for the fight. I have not received any information today, direct or indirect, to show that the operators will recede from their position."

Some Facts That Are Pertinent.

The total area involved in the impending strike is 472 miles, from which the output of hard coal is 75,000,000 tons per annum.

It is estimated that there are 148,000 miners involved, all of whom, it is claimed, will stop work beginning Monday. The districts, headquarters of the miners therein, the union leaders, and the union memberships are as follows:

Anthracite district No. 1—Upper part of Luzerne and all of Lackawanna County. Miners' headquarters, Wilkesbarre, Pa. Union leader, John Fahey. Number of men, 75,000.

Anthracite district No. 7—Hazelton and upper part of Schuylkill County. Miners' headquarters, Hazleton, Pa. Union leader, Thomas Duffy. Number of men, 21,000.

Anthracite district No. 9—Northumberland and part of Schuylkill County. Miners' headquarters, Shamokin, Pa. Union leader, Thomas D. Nichols. Number of men, 52,000.

ADDRESSES ISSUED BY MINERS.

They Set Forth the Causes Leading Up to Approaching Strike.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 14.—The following has been issued today from United Mine Workers' Headquarters:

"Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 13, 1900.—The members of the national executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, realising that the material welfare of a large number of American people will be injuriously affected by a general suspension of work in the coal fields of Pennsylvania, knowing the irresistible power of concentrated public opinion, and having a profund respect for the opinions of their fellowmen, have decided to make a general statement for the information of the public.

"No one can have a greater appreciation of the far-reaching effect of a strike of the anthracite coal miners than the people. The coal miners and their families, the coal companies and the coal carrying railways are but a small portion of the vast multitudes whose interests are so directly and indirectly connected with the coal trade that a conflict of such magnitude would materially affect their welfare.

"The domestic fuel supply of the West; the great manufacturing industries of the East; the wholesale and retail business establishments; the great ocean, lake, canal and railroad transportation interests, laboring men and capitalists, will all be affected by such a gigantic struggle. That the world may know that we have done all that honorable men can do to avoid the conflict, we herewith submit a few facts for careful consideration:

"The average wages of the anthracite miner for many years have been less than $550 annually. During that period of time the cost of many of the necessaries of life has been increased over 20 per cent. An increase in the cost of living without a corresponding increase in wages is equivalent to a reduction in wages.

Abuses That Are Outlined.

"The laws of the state of Pennsylvania make 2400 pounds a ton of anthracite coal, yet anthracite coal miners are compelled to mine from 2700 to 4000 pounds for a ton, for in addition to that are docked exorbitant amounts, often reaching 12 per cent of their daily earnings, for any impurities which may be sent out with their coal. Where they are paid by the car, instead of being required to furnish a well-rounded heap on the car at the breakers, as was originally agreed to, they have gradually been compelled to increase the amount of coal in each car by building the same perpendicularly from 6 to 8 inches above the edge.

"They are compelled to purchase the powder used in mining from their employers, paying $2.75 per keg for a grade of powder that can be purchased elsewhere for $1.50 per keg, and which wholesales for about $1 per keg.

"They are required by many of the companies to deal in pluck-me stores or leave their employment.

"They must pay to the company $1 per month for a doctor, whether they need him or not, and have no voice in saying who the doctor shall be.

"The smallness of their earnings, together with the great cost of living, has compelled them to take their children from school before they have reached the age prescribed by law and place them at work in the breakers in order to keep the family from starvation.

Their Complaints Were Ignored.

"When any miner, feeling the burden of these conditions, has gone to the management and asked to have them removed, he has been told that if he does not like it he can quit.

"Whenever they have organized in any colliery and have sent committees to the agent asking to have their grievances considered the members of the committee have either been discharged or have been told that the evils could not be remedied because of the competition from the other companies.

"When the representatives of the miners of the whole region have met and asked the coal companies to meet them in joint convention to arrange wages and conditions on an equitable basis, so that each would know what his competitor was paying and no advantage could be taken of any one, their petition for a conference has been completely ignored.

"Whenever the business men, clergymen or outside influences have appealed to the coal companies to correct some of the evils complained of, their requests have been denied; and when, as a last resort, the officers of our organization have wired the presidents of the great railroad companies, who control the anthracite coal fields, offering to submit the whole question to arbitration, the proposition has been treated with silent contempt.

"Having exhausted all other means of adjustment, we had reached a point where we must either advise miners of the anthracite region to continue working under unjust and tyrannical conditions or counsel a strike.

Investigation Is Invited.

"We have chosen the latter, and, having done so, we invite a thorough, impartial and public investigation of the conditions existing in the anthracite coal fields. We believe that the great American heart throbs in sympathy for the down-trodden and oppressed, whether in this or in any other land. We know the great power of the public press in molding public sentiment. With an abiding faith in the justice of our cause, and a consciousness of the knowledge that whosoever else may vilify and abuse us, the Great Jehovah knows and understands the rectitude of our purpose, we appeal to the American people and the American press as the greatest arbiters on earth to assist us and sustain us in our hour of trial.

"On behalf of the National Executive Board, United Mine Workers of America, we are, sincerely yours,

"JOHN MITCHELL, President.
W. B. WILSON, Secretary-Treasurer."

NEW YORK FACES COAL FAMINE.

There Is But 45 Days' Supply in Sight and Price Is Advancing.

NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 14.—New York City is face to face with a threatened coal famine, a period of distress which may recall to the old inhabitants the coal strike of 1870-1871, when anthracite cost the consumer $12 and $14 a ton.

This city, of all others, will bear the brunt of any coal famine which the labor troubles may develop. The amount of coal now in the hands of New York dealers, on the way to the city and in the hands of the coal companies, above ground, is estimated at only 45 days' supply, which means about 1,125,000 tons.

The representative of mining and commission house which mines three million to four million tons a year, besides handling coal for the railroad companies, has predicted an advance in four days.

"On Monday," he said, "we shall raise our price $1 a ton and I presume that there will be a general rise of at least that amount."

Dealers are busy completing their arrangements for getting in stocks of coal, but big railroad companies are proving how thoroughly they appreciate the situation by shutting down on the dealers. The Philadelphia & Reading have refused to take further orders for coal and are taking orders only against stocks on hand, with the understanding that these orders are to be canceled in the event of a strike.

The dealers have only been awake to the threatening situation for about a week, but in that time they have been scrambling furiously to buy and water freight rates and wholesale rates for coal have already risen sharply. This advance simply presages a much larger one.

STATEMENT FROM OPERATORS

Claim Less Than an Hour Was Given for Reply to Demand for Arbitration by Miners.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—R. M. Olyphant, president of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, says he has not replied and would not reply to the telegram from John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, demanding arbitration of the difficulties existing between the company and its men.

He called attention to the fact that it was sent from Indianapolis Wednesday afternoon at 4:20 o'clock, that it was received by him at 4:42 and that the strike order was issued at 5:30.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Olyphant, "that that tells the whole tale. I received Mr. Mitchell's telegram at 4:42 and read it, and then went up stairs and found the Erie people reading theirs. Mr. Mitchell, therefore gave us less than an hour to decide whether we would submit to arbitration certain grievances that he did not name. Mr. Mitchell has said that this telegram was one last effort to settle the grievances said to exist between the company and its employes. So far as I am aware, this is the first attempt he ever made to settle the matter. Surely, I had never heard from him before; and then I was given about three-quarters of an hour to make up my mind.

"This, with the exception of a communication from certain walking delegates, is the only intimation I have received that our men were dissatisfied or that they proposed to strike. The communication came some days ago, and consisted of a number of proposals which I was directed to sign and return at once. I might as well have declared the company bankrupt as to have signed that paper; and of course I did not.

"I have always been ready to treat with our men and am ready to do so now. But no delegation from them has ever appeared, and we have yet to learn from our men themselves that they are dissatisfied with their treatment.

"We do decline to treat with Mr. Mitchell and the organization he represents. The trouble has all been fomented by the bituminous unions. I am confident that the anthracite unions have no real grievances.

"We shall not attempt to fill the men's places. We shall shut down the collieries and wait for the men to return. We have no desire to foment disorder and shall not encourage it by bringing in new men."

William V. S. Thorne of the Pennsylvania Coal Co., which employs 8000 men, declared that he took a similar position. This company, he added, would make no effort to put new men at work unless the strike was indefinitely prolonged.

THE CALM BEFORE THE STORM.

Mines in Full Operation Preparatory to the Close Down Tomorrow Night.

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept. 14.—Everything is quiet in the Hazleton region today. Not a colliery is idle or short-handed, and operations are in full blast, every miner being anxious to put in to-day and to-morrow, the last two days allowed by the United Mine Workers for prepartion for the strike.

Strike Leader Benjamin James was busy all day preparing the headquarters to be occupied by President Mitchell and his staff. Mr. James is in close communication with the union leaders throughout the district and says he has received reports from every mine to the effect that the men will go out on strike as ordered.

The mine workers are busy enlisting recruits and meetings are booked for every town within a radius of twelve miles for the next two nights and on Sunday afternoon. A parade and mass meeting will be held in this city tomorrow night.

The men employed at the Jeddo and Oakdale collieries operated by G. B. Markle & Co., will meet tonight for the purpose of deciding whether they will obey the strike order of President Mitchell. An agreement exists between the operators and the men at these mines to submit all their grievances to a board of arbitration on which both officials and employes have representation.

BUTCHERS STRIKE.

Firm Refused to Discharge Men Who Did Not Pay Dues.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The strike of butchers, which originated in the packing house of the Jacob Dold Packing Co., has spread to the establishment of Sahlem Brothers, Michael Danahy, Christian Klenick, Klenick Brothers and the Buffalo Packing Co.

The aggregate number of men out is variously estimated at between 800 and 1200. A large meeting of the strikers was held last night and it was intimated at its conclusion that the engineers, coopers, carpenters and other employes of the packing houses might go out today as an act of sympathy for the butchers. The cause of the strike is said to be the refusal of the Dold company to discharge two men who failed to pay their dues to the union.

(The foregoing figures as to the number of men involved in the strike and the wages received were furnished by members of the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America.)

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept. 14.—The mine employes in the anthracite district of Pennsylvania number about 145,000. The membership of the union is not known to a certainty, but the leaders claim that about 80 per cent of the miners are organized.

The coal basins extend over an area of about 472 square miles and are distributed throughout several counties, the more important workings being in Luzerne, Lackawanna, Schuylkill, Carbon and Northumberland counties. The districts are known as No. 1, comprising Upper Luzerne and Lackawanna; No. 7, comprising Hazleton and the Upper Schuylkill region, and No. 9, comprising Shamokin and a portion of the Schuylkill region. The average production from the entire district is 75,000,000 tons a year.

In the mines in the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley districts 80,000 men and boys are employed. Of these 50,000 are distributed through the workings lying between Pittston in Luzerne county, and Forest City in Susquehanna county.

There are 25,000 employes in the mines in the vicinity of Walkes, Wilkesbarre, Ashley, Nanticoke, Plymouth and Wanamie, 15,000 about Hazelton, 20,000 at Mahanoy City and Shenandoah, and 23,000 around Shamokin, Pottsville and Mt. Carmel.

The closing of the mines is expected to reduce the regular coal production about 75 per cent, leaving free only the Reading Coal and Iron Co. production of 20.5 per cent of the total amount of the region, and 5.65 per cent of the Lehigh Valley's production.

Should the strike continue two months the loss in wages will amount to $8,400,000; loss to railroads, $20,000,00, and loss to mine operators, $20,000,000.

Officers of the miners' union estimate that the organization has a balance of $100,000 in the treasury with which to conduct the strike.

PREFERRED DEATH TO PRISON

Woman Arrested on Grave Charge Went to Her Room and Fired Bullet Into Her Brain.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 14.—Mrs. Alice Maud Newland, formerly of Forest, Ill., shot herself through the heart last evening at the Newland residence at Galesburg. She had previously been arrested with her husband, Dr. Frederick M. Newland, charged with violating the United States postal laws by sending through the mails circulars advertising the criminal use of drugs manufactured by them under the name of the De Floraine Remedy Co., with headquarters at Buffalo, Galesburg and other cities.

United States Commissioner Humphrey of Chicago issued the warrant and has been accumulating evidence for months. A few minutes before the time to board the train for Canton for the preliminary examination, Mrs. Newland asked to go to her room. Hearing the shot fired her husband and United States Marshal Trip broke open the door and found the woman dead. The husband was held in $1200 for a hearing and will be committed to the Peoria jail today.

Seth Abbott is 83 years old, and gave his daughter the foundation for the voice that made her famous.

He came to Lowell recently to visit Mrs. B. C. Atkinson, a distant relative. He was arrested for throwing money away on the street, and giving it to clerks in the stores.

CROWD PROMISED TO HEAR BRYAN

Reserved Seat Tickets Nearly Exhausted.

NINE THOUSAND ISSUED.

ALL SEATS FREE AFTER 7:45 O'CLOCK.

Mr. Bryan Arrives at Noon Saturday, Will Be the Center of a Reception in the Afternoon and Speaks in That Evening.

So great has been the demand for tickets of admission to the Bryan meeting at the Coliseum Saturday night that few of them are left, and these will probably be given away before Friday evening.

No conditions are required of those to whom tickets are given. Any person, regardless of politics or social station, may have them for the asking, so long as any are left. An impression has got abroad that the tickets are being charged for. This is without foundation.

The entire arena floor of the Coliseum, containing 5000 seats, was reserved for Democratic organizations, and the tickets for these have been issued to these organizations, and distributed by them to their members.

The dress circle and boxes were also reserved. These contain 4500 seats. Tickets for these seats have been free to the general public. They have been issued impartially in the order in which applications were made, and nearly all are gone. The boxes were given to subscribers to the fund raised to pay the expenses of the meeting, which are quite heavy.

Holders of all tickets except those for boxes must claim them before 7:45 o'clock, as after that time all vacant seats, wherever located, except in boxes and on the platform, will be open to the general public. Holders of tickets will do well to remember this, as the demand for seats is great, and it is probable that there will be 10 persons for each seat, and the crowd will seize the opportunity to take vacant reserved chairs after 7:45 o'clock.

The doors will be open at 7 o'clock.

There will be plenty of ushers, doorkeepers, sergeants-at-arms and policemen to handle the crowds. There will be 50 ushers, 50 doorkeepers and 50 sergeant-at-arms and 75 police officers, under the command of 10 sergeants of police.

The music will be furnished by Seymour's First Regiment Band of 50 pieces.

The accoustics of the hall have been proven good, and Mr. Bryan will be heard in all parts of the building.

He will arrive at Union Station at 12:36 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A small reception committee will meet him at Relay Depot, East St. Louis, and the general reception committee will meet him at Union Station. He will be driven in a carriage drawn by four white horses and escorted by the reception committee in carriages from the station north on Eighteenth street to Washington, east to Broadway, south to Olive, west to Ninth, north to Locust and east to the St. Nicholas Hotel. In the afternoon a reception will be held between 4 and 5 o'clock in the banquet hall of the hotel.

Nearly all the Democratic organizations of the city will march to the Coliseum and many of them will be headed by bands.

The meeting will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. James W. Jump, chairman of the national Democratic committee of Commercial Travelers will preside.

He will introduce John A. Lee, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, who will speak briefly. Mr. Lee will introduce Webster Davis.

John R. Boddie of Arkansas will introduce Mr. Bryan. The presidential candidate will devote most of his attention to the trust issue.

BEQUEST CAME OPPORTUNELY

Dressmaker Was Being Evicted When News Came of $25,000 Fortune Left Her by Grateful Man.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Just after the city marshal was serving Miss Georgiana Edith Simonson, a dressmaker of this city, with dispossession proceedings, an attorney who had been seeking her for several days called on her and notified her that she was heir to $25,000. The money was bequeathed to Miss Simonson by Frank Stevens, an American, who died a few months ago in St. Petersburg. He left it in appreciation of her former kindness to his wife, who was the victim of a runaway accident in this city, and who died a few months before Mr. Stevens.

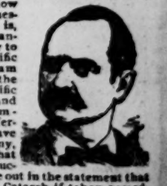

CATARRH

Catarrh has become such a common disease that a person entirely free from this disgusting complaint is seldom met with. It is customary to speak of Catarrh as nothing more serious than a bad cold, a simple inflammation of the nose and throat. It is, in fact, a complicated and very dangerous disease; if not at first, it very soon becomes so.

The blood is quickly contaminated by the foul secretions, and the poison through the general circulation is carried to all parts of the system.

Salves, washes and sprays are unsatisfactory and disappointing, because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does. It cleanses the blood of the poison and eliminates from the system all catarrhal secretions, and thus cures thoroughly and permanently the worst cases.

Mr. P. H. McAllister, of Harrodsburg, Ky., writes: "Having been a terrible sufferer from Catarrh, and being now sound and well, the question often put to me is, 'What cured you?' In answer I feel it my duty to state that Swift's Specific is the medicine. I am such a true believer in the efficacy of Swift's Specific that I can honestly and conscientiously recommend it to any one suffering from Catarrh. Have recommended it to many, and am happy to say that those whom I have induced to use it can bear me out in the statement that it will cure any case of Catarrh if taken according to directions."

SSS is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and the greatest of all blood medicines and tonics.

If you have Catarrh don't wait until it becomes deep-seated and chronic, but begin at once the use of S. S. S., and send for our book on blood and skin diseases and write our physicians about your case.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA

100 COLLEGE GIRLS
FROM WEST POINT, MISS.,
STOP IN KIRKWOOD

Bright Southern Lassies Will Spend Two Weeks Studying the Good Points of St. Louis and Forgetting Their Books.

There are 100 visiting girls in Kirkwood. One hundred bright, merry, laughing maidens from the sunny South, all sojourning in the aristocratic little suburb of St. Louis at once.

They come from the plantations of Louisiana, from the first families of Alabama, from homes of culture and refinement in Mississippi.

And they are going to stay two weeks.

Through the halls of the spacious old structure on Webster avenue, a few blocks from the railroad depot, formerly known as the North Side Inn, soft musical voices ring merrily where all was sadly silent a week ago, and, under the giant trees in the park-lake grounds surrounding it, owners of equally musical voices move gracefully about, morning and afternoon, their bright-hued dresses lending color to a scene of unique but genuine interest to the people of Kirkwood.

While these young ladies remain in Kirkwood, unusual efforts will be made to entertain them. They will be escorted to the St. Louis parks, gardens and other points of interest, not even excepting the breweries.

The 100 visitors are college girls. They are in Kirkwood under the kindly but rigid chaperonage of Rev. A. N. Eshmann, president of the Southern Female Seminary of West Point, Miss., his wife and a corps of lady teachers. Dr. Eshmann and these ladies will escort the girls to the points of interest they desire them to see, regardless of how much any of the young Kirkwoodians may envy them that prerogative.

It is not the first time Dr. Eschmann, who is a distinguished Presbyterian minister in the South, has arranged an outing of this kind for his pupils. Last year he brought about the same number to this city and domiciled them for a month in the cottages at Meramec Highlands. So profitable as well as pleasurable did the experiment prove that he decided to renew it this fall.

Kirkwood was selected this year, instead of the Highlands, owing to the fact that it is more accessible to the city and also because of the fact that the old Cairns Seminary (or North Side Inn, as it was afterwards called) is remarkably well adapted to the needs of the visiting party. It has ample room for all the young ladies and the grounds are extensive and beautifully shaded. It has been tenantless for some time.

"We consider such an outing a practical educational advantage for the girls," he told the Post-Dispatch. "Many of them live in comparatively small towns and have never visited a large city. Therefore, we believe that to give them a glimpse of such a metropolis as St. Louis under the proper conditions and to afford them an insight into the best habits of the people of a large city is a very good thing."

"The trip is not compusory upon the girls," Miss Nannie Clark of West Point, Miss., explained to the Post-Dispatch. "The girls here are only a part of the number of students enrolled for this year. An opportunity was offered all to come, but some had made the trip last year. Many of the girls, like myself, had not made that trip and were quite pleased at the opportunity of coming. When we return, in two weeks, the other girls will be at West Point and school will be formally opened. No classes will be held here. Nearly all the time will be devoted to sight-seeing."

President Eshmann would have little difficulty in starting his classes in Kirkwood, should he so desire, as he has with him Miss Jessie Louise Jones, teacher of English; Mrs. Joiner, instructor in vocal music; Miss Charlton, musical director, and Miss Nannie Mosely, lady principal.

Besides there are with the party a few chaperones and visitors, in which respect this southern college outing is unique. The chaperones are relatives of some of the young ladies. The visitors are young women, friends of members of the college faculty. Among the latter is Miss Tomason of Oxford, Ala.

In the party are 80 pupils, 11 teachers and five chaperones. The other four necessary to make up the even 100 in the party are servants.

DR. SUTTER SUES

FORMER HOSPITAL SUPERINTENDENT WANTS DIVORCE.

SAYS HIS WIFE ABUSED HIM.

Declares She Accused Him of Many Offenses, Injuring His Practice and Embarrassing Him.

Dr. Otto Sutter, formerly superintendent of the City Hospital, and one of the most prominent physicians in St. Louis, began proceedings in the Circuit Court Friday for a divorce from Matilda C. Sutter. He charges that she said unpleasant things about him in connection with his profession.

The couple were married in April, 1885, and lived together until Jan. 25 last, when, the plaintiff says, he was compelled to leave the deefndant because unable to tolerate the indignities with which she beset his domestic life.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant accused him of associating with immoral persons, making the accusation in the presence of their children, and, in order that they might understand what she meant, defining the social standing of such persons.

It is further claimed by Dr. Sutter that Mrs. Sutter charged him with entertaining improper relations with some of his feminine patients and with keeping in his employ certain trained nurses whose characters were not spotless. He avers that these accusations have greatly embarrassed him in his practice and have made it impossible for him to live with the defendant.

He asks that a decree of divorce be granted him and that he be awarded the custody of the four children, Myrtle, Irene, Roland and Mabel, aged 12, 10, 8 and 6 years respectively.

RUNAWAY BOYS CAPTURED

Kirkwood Truants Who Had Started for Galveston Were Caught at Cuba, Mo.

C. Sumner Mudd and Pat Muldoon, the Kirkwood runaways, who left home Wednesday, were brought back again safe and sound Friday morning by Marshal Secrest.

Secrest followed them all day Thursday from place to place and finally overtook them at Cuba. Mudd was glad to get back home; Muldoon wanted to go farther.

The boys admitted they had started for Galveston. Their money took them as far as Pacific, Mo., with a little left for meals. From there to Cuba they rode in a freight car with a lot of tramps.

FRANK PEYTON GOES TO IOWA.

He Is Indicted in Sioux City for the Crime of Murder.

Frank Peyton, the confessed murderer of John Robson at Sioux City, Ia., one year ago, was turned over to Sheriff C. H. Jackson and Chief of Police James Nelon of that city by Judge Clark of the Court of Criminal Correction Friday.

Peyton appeared in the courtroom. His wife was also present. Judge Clark read the requisition of Gov. Shaw of Iowa and the extradition granted by Gov. Stephens of Missouri. He then made the order transferring the prisoner to the Iowa sheriff.

The officers and their charge will start for Sioux City Friday night. It is possible that Mrs. Peyton will follow as soon as she can make arrangements to defray her expenses.

FRANCIS LISKO DEAD

WEALTHY LUMBER DEALER OF ST. PAUL, ARK.

DIED AT THE CITY HOSPITAL.

Unable to Rally From a Sudden Attack of Uremia, the Aged Man Passed Away.

Francis Lisko, the aged and wealthy lumber dealer of St. Paul, Ark., who was taken to the City Hospital Wednesday from a room at 1920 Market street, died at 1 o'clock Friday morning. Urema caused his death.

Mr. Lisko was breathing his last on a cot in Division 8 of the City Hospital as a messenger boy entered the front door of the hospital carrying a message directed to him. The telegram was from the old gentleman's son, John Lisko, sheriff of the county in which St. Paul is situated. It read:

"Are you seriously ill? Do you need me?"

An answer was sent back at once and the son is expected in St. Louis tonight.

Mr. Lisko was 80 years of age. He had been one of the pioneers in the lumber regions of Arkansas, and had amassed considerable property in that state. His business brought him to St. Louis often, and he was known to a number of lumber dealers here.

When he arrived in the city Tuesday he was ill, and secured a room near the Union Station. Here he was found to be dangerously ill by the hotel proprietor, and was sent to the hospital. Upon his arrival at the hospital Mr. Lisko was unable to tell his name, and it was not until the next day that his identity was established.

SHE HAD AGREED NOT TO SUE

Mrs. Hattie C. Dent of Boston Says Her Husband Broke the Conditions and She Now Sues for Support.

Mrs. Hattie C. Dent of Boston, Mass., instituted an unusual suit in the circuit court Friday, asking judgment against her husband, Charles H. Dent, for $800, which, she says, is due her under an agreement of separation which was made between him and her May 3, 1893.

This agreement was drawn up, it is claimed, after it became evident that the couple could no longer live together on account of unhappy conditions that had arisen in their domestic life.

It provides that the plaintiff may live apart from her husband and have custody of the two children of the marriage, George and Edward. In return for this, it is agreed, the defendant shall pay the plaintiff $75 a month as her support, upon the further condition that he shall not be sued for support. That the restrictions against litigation may be strong, it is provided that the payment of the sum shall cease upon the institution of any action against the plaintiff by the defendant.

It is alleged by the plaintiff that she has complied with the terms of the agreement since it went into effect, but avers that between October, 1898, and May, 1900, the defendant paid her only $50 a month, leaving a balance due her for the period of $500. She also declares that she has received no remittance from him since June last, which has increased the balance due her by $300, making the total $800. It is this sum she sues for.

Divorce After Thirty Years

After 30 years of happy married life, Thomas and Louisa Kretschmer have separated and now he is suing her for a divorce. It is charged by the plaintiff that the defendant deserted him. They were married Feb. 28, 1868, and separated, it is claimed, June 11, 1898.

CEREALS UNCHANGED

WHEAT AND CORN CLOSED DULL AND STEADY.

EARLY DEMAND WAS GOOD.

Foreign Advances Did Not Hold and the Demand Falling Off the Market Grew Quiet.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Sept. 14.

Traders bought wheat at the opening today and also bid corn up several fractions. The strong opening cables were largely responsible for the bullish feeling.

After a substantial advance on heavy buying, the demand fell off and futures slipped down the scale.

Liverpool opened steady at ⅛d advance from the previous close. Corn opened ⅛d up. Paris opened 5 centimes down, but closed 10 centimes or ½c up for the day.

St. Louis—Oct. wheat was bid 74½c and Dec. opened at 76c. Sept. corn was bid 39c.

Chicago—Sept. wheat 75¼c and Oct. 76@76⅛c. Sept. corn 40¾@40⅞c and Oct. 39⅛@39¼c.

New York—Sept. wheat 80⅝c and Dec. 83⅛@83¼c. Sept. corn 46c and Dec. 41⅞c.

The weather—Probably showers tonight or Saturday; warmer to-night. The barometer is highest over the upper lakes and lowest over western South Dakota and southern Alabama. Rains were general in the northwest and southeast sections of the country, the largest amount falling at Montgomery, Ala. The temperature has risen in the Missouri valley and central West and has fallen slightly in the Lake region.

Liquidation was the early feature in the cotton market.

Holders of the staple at the opening of the market dumped their lots on the market both in this country and abroad.

The Liverpool market opened 12@30 American points down and shaded still lower under continued long selling.

New York opened 3 to 15 points below the previous close. Jan. was off 3 points, Sept. 15, Oct. 8, Nov. 9 and Dec. 6 points down.

After the opening break more cotton came out and prices soon fell about 10 points.

Helped along by an improved demand, prices remained strong during most of the early market.

There were occasional sags, but in the main the wheat market more than held its own.

The declines came soon after some fair opening advances had been recorded, and were largely caused by a letting up in the demand and falling off of interest on the part of the pit.

Sliding down a few fractions, wheat once more rallied, going up ⅛c above the previous close, and then became dull and narrow.

Dec. wheat was the only future to receive much attention. It opened at 76c, and then sold at 75⅞c, 76c, 75⅞c, 75⅞@76c, 76c, 75⅞c, 75¾@75⅞c, 75⅝c, 75⅝@75¾c, and then fell to 75⅝c.

Dec. corn sold at 34⅛c, after being offered at 34c. Sept. was bid 39c. 39⅛c, 39¼c, 39⅜c and 39⅛c, but no sales were made.

Liverpool closed ⅛@⅜d up for the day.

The corn market was very quiet and little demand was felt.

STOCKYARD NOTES.

Now that the export and eastern buying is about to renew its activity, it is well for marketers of horses to guard as much as possible against sidebone blemish. While buyers of big horses are, on account of the shortage, not as hypercritical as a couple of years ago, there is still the same aversion to the sidebone among foreign buyers and it is only in the case of absolute superiority in quality that they will stomach the defect. An exporter would rather have a curb, a coarseness or any other blemish than a sidebone, because in Europe it depreciates the value tremendously.

Three hundred head of British mules were shipped on Monday to South Africa, via New Orleans, and another 300 head were examined and accepted on Tuesday. The latter inspection completed the fulfillment of all contracts for pack mules held by the dealers. Whether any more contracts will be let is doubtful.

Horses are being sold now at fair prices that were not good enough to sell at any price a year or two ago. That is what a dealer said when he paid a price that did not look high to the seller. Horses can yet be common enough for railroads to require freight payments in advance.

A year ago this week the horse and mule arrivals at this market amounted to 2033 head. The September receipts were 8322 head.

During the week the range of prices on Southern horses was large. Small, ordinary 14½ to 15½ plain animals sold from $40 to $50 for plain to medium quality and from $55 to $75 for good to choice, the bulk of sales being made at $45 to $60. Medium chunks, 1100 to 1300-pound chunks also went to a limited number to Southern buyers at $75 to $100, while a number of drivers of good to choice quality were purchased for Southern distribution at $85 to $135.

Horse and mule arrivals at the National Yards so far this year amount to about 94,500 head. Last year to same date the receipts were 71,897 head. This exhibits an increase of about 12,600 head so far this year.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Wheat started the day strong and active under the influence of higher cables in response to yesterday's advance here, and because of further rains in the northwest. October opened ⅛c to ⅜c higher at 76c to 76⅜c. On profit taking the market dropped to 75⅞c, but the offerings were well taken and a reaction to 76¼@76⅜c followed. Trade following the first deals was quiet. Local receipts were 246 cars, five of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 569 cars, against 483 last week, and 1022 a year ago.

Corn was strong and moderately active, sustained by the wheat strength and light country offerings. October opened a shade up at 39⅛ to 39¼c and advanced to 39½c. Shippers were active buyers and as most of the crowd was short there was considerable covering. Receipts were 525 cars.

Oats were quiet and the undertone was easy despite the strength of wheat and corn. October opened a shade higher at 22c, but eased off a shade. Local receipts were 327 cars.

Provisions were quiet and easier because hog receipts were 6000 head over the estimate. October pork opened 5c lower at $11.42½; October lard 2½@5c lower at $6.77½ and October ribs 7½@10c lower at $7.27½@7.30.

MEETING OF POLICE BOARD

Consideration of Charges Against Special Officer Roemer and Detective Lally Postponed.

Trials of cases marked the meeting of the board of police commissioners Friday morning in the board rooms at the Four Courts.

It was the first meeting of the board since July 20, and there were 34 policemen against whom charges had been preferred. The halls and corridors were crowded with them.

At Friday's meeting there were present President Harry B. Hawes and Commissioners Stuever and Atmore. The trials of the men against whom there were charges was held behind closed doors. After the board passed on the evidence the public was permitted to know what the nature of the charge was, but the evidence was kept inviolate.

Of the great number of cases to be tried the interest centered mainly in the cases against Drillmaster T. Rosser Roemer and Detective Patrick Lally. Neither of these cases was taken up.

Roemer is charged with having laid violent hands on three young ladies on a downtown street corner a few nights ago.

Roemer's trial was postponed because of his attendance at the funeral of his father-in-law, Sergt. Kelley, who was buried Friday.

Detective Lally was charged with having entered a street car, while intoxicated, and, drawing his revolver, flourished it above his head, threatening to shoot the other occupants of the car. Lally was on his furlough at the time. His furlough has not expired and his case was postponed until such time as he should return to the city.

The following cases were disposed of:

Patrolman Patrick McMahon of the Sixth District, was charged with neglect of duty and with absenting himself without leave. He made no defense and tendered a resignation, in which he said: "I hereby tender my resignation. I am hounded to death by certain parties in the Sixth District."

Probationary Patrolman Andrew McGlynn of the Sixth District, charged with absenting himself without leave, was found guilty and fined $25.

Probationary Patrolman F. C. Bittle of the Ninth District was charged with failing to make an arrest when requested by a transit company conductor. He was reprimanded.

Edward Fenlon of the Ninth District was charged with intoxication. He was tried, found guilty and dismissed from the force.

Ed E. Walton was fined $90 for intoxication; August H. Dooley $20 for being absent without leave; William Meany, dismissed from force, asleep on duty; L. B. Bollard, $50 for entering a saloon; Andrew McGlynn, $2, absent without leave; William H. Randall, dismissed from force, intoxication; F. C. Bettel, reprimanded for neglect of duty; Daniel W. THREE STILL MISSING

SAD NEWS FROM GALVESTON FOR MRS. A. L. WEST.

FATHER, MOTHER AND BROTHER

Telegram States They Are Missing and Mr. West Has Started for Galveston to Search for Them.

After sending a score of telegrams to Galvestion in an endeavor to learn if his relatives there had perished in the great storm, A. L. West has received the following answer:

"Papa, mamma and Willie are still missing. RUDY."

Mr. West is a clerk for the St. Louis Transit Co., and with his wife he lives at 2757 Geyer avenue. The persons reported as still being missnig are the parents and brother of his wife. Mr. West left on a night train for Galveston.

Theodore Goldman, his wife, Mrs. Bettie Goldman, and William Goldman are the names of the missing. Mr. Goldman was 72 years old and for 40 years he had made his home in Galveston. He was a watchmaker and jeweler and during his long residence in the ill-fated city he had been a prominent figure in business circles. His son was in the same business and occupied a position of trust with the largest establishment of its kind in Galveston.

The family, prior to the storm, consisted of the father, mother, two sons and three daughters, one, the last mentioned, a widow with four children.

Mr. West has no advice as to how his relatives met death further than that conveyed in the brief telegram.

Mr. West is a native of St. Louis and has lived in this city all his life, save three years that he passed in Galveston. It was during these three years that he met Miss Goldman and won her for his wife. She has been in such bad health for some months and was so prostrated by the blow that her physician forbade her to make the trip.

MILK CONTRACT ANNULLED

Supply Commissioner Meier Notifies the Union Dairy Co. to Cease Furnishing the City With Milk.

Supply Commissioner Fred C. Meier Friday annulled the city's contract with the Union Dairy Co. for furnishing milk to the city institutions. The company was notified in a letter mailed by Mr. Meier at noon Friday to cease supplying milk to the various institutions, and temporary arrangements will be made for a milk supply until another contract can be let.

The supply commissioner's action is the result of complaints which have been made by the heads of the institutions regarding the milk supply. The first of these complaints was made by Dr. Runge, superintendent of the Insane Asylum, two months ago. His statement was referred to City Chemist Teichmann.

"The whole trouble," said Mr. Meier to the Post-Dispatch, "was that the price at which the company took the contract in June, 11.72 cents per gallon, was entirely too low for any possibility of profit. However, that is the company's lookout. We shall be obliged to hold the company on their bond for the difference between their contract price and that which we shall have to pay for milk for the remainder of the year."

PRINCE CHING ON PLANS FOR PEACE

Nothing to Be Done Until Li Hung Chang Arrives.

HOPE FOR EARLY SETTLEMENT

HE HAS FULL AUTHORITY TO NEGOTIATE SETTLEMENT.

Speaks of Unnecessary Harshness and Hopes the Powers Will Not Exact Degrading Conditions of China.

PEKIN, Sept. 5, via Shanghai, Sept. 14.—Prince Ching arrived here yesterday, accompanied by an escort of British and Japanese cavalry. He spent the night in his own palace.

Sharp diplomatic play is expected for an advantage, but any definite negotiations will not take place until Li Hung Chang has arrived and the question of his authority shall have been disposed of.

The Japanese minister to China, Baron Noshii, stated to a representative of the press that he wished an investigation to be made of Li Hung Chang's credentials, as he believed that Prince Ching was the only man with authority in the premises.

A press representative saw Prince Ching today. The prince said he trusted that in the immediate future everything would be settled satisfactorily.

He thought the treatment of Pekin unnecessarily cruel and that was especially true as regards private property. He was thankful, however, that the sacred city had been preserved.

He had come to Pekin, he said, with full authority from the emperor to obtain peace by any necessary sacrifice, but he felt sure the generosity of the powers would not exact anything degrading to the dignity of China or encroaching upon Chinese territory and he hoped within a month to see the harvest gathered and homes being rebuilt.

Prince Ching thinks a great blow has been given to Chinese commerce, but does not believe the loss to the city is irreparable for a more magnificent one may arise from the ashes.

The Russians expect Li Hung Chang to arrive here within a few days. They do not want to commit themselves in any way until he comes, though they say they are willing to hear what Prince Ching has to say.

NEWS FROM OVER THE COUNTY

A car of the transit company ran into a market wagon driven by Henry Kahre of Black Jack Thursday evening at Baden, badly damaging the wagon, scattering the load of produce and throwing Kahre to the street. He was picked up unconscious, and when taken to a doctor's office it was found he had been injured on the head, face and body. He was revived by the physicians and later sent to his home in Black Jack. The farmer's loss is estimated at $120.

A levy on some property supposed to belong to William and Jacob Kraemer of Stratmann postoffice by the sheriff Thursday promises to result in a legal fight. The levy was made at the instance of Herman Weremeyer of Gettzville, who had obtained a judgment against the two Kraemer brothers. The property lies near Olivette Station on the St. Louis & Colorado Railroad and is in possession of their brother, Henry Kramer, who appeared at Clayton and made oath that the property belonged to him. The title will be decided at the next term of the circuit court.

The September term of the St. Louis County Circuit Court will convene next Monday with Judge John W. Booth on the bench. There are 165 cases on the docket, 29 of which are suits for divorce. The criminal docket is very light this term, and it is not expected that many indictments will be returned by the grandjury, which also meets next Monday.

The boy was riding on the rear end of a wagon owned by a butcher at Baldwin, and in jumping from it was caught in the face by a hook extending from the "tail gate." His face was lacerated from the mouth to the right eye, and a physician who attended him said his injury might result in blood poisoning.

The quarterly meeting of the Woman's Missionary and Benevolent Union of the St. Louis Baptist Association, was held in the Baptist Church at Maplewood, Sept. 13, at 10 a. m. Delegates from all the Baptist churches in St. Louis and St. Louis County were present. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. M. Averill, second vice-president of the union. KRUGER RESIGNS THE PRESIDENCY

Announcement Is Officially Made by Lord Roberts.

GEN. BOTHA ALSO RETIRED.

LORD ROBERTS ISSUES A VIGOROUS PROCLAMATION.

Tells Burghers Struggle Is Hopeless, 15,000 of Them Are Prisoners of War and They Can Hope for No Intervention.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The following dispatch has been received at the war office from Lord Roberts:

"Machadodorp, Thursday, Sept. 13.—Kruger has fled to Lourenzo Marques and Botha has been obliged to give over the command of the Boer army, temporarily, to Viljoen, on account of ill-health. In consequence of this, I have circulated a proclamation as follows:

"'The late President Kruger, with Reitz and the archives of the South African Republic, has crossed the Portuguese frontier and arrived at Lourenzo Marques with the view of sailing for Europe at an early date. Kruger has formally resigned the position which he held as President of the South African Republic, thus severing his official connection with the Transvaal.

"'Kruger's action shows how hopeless in his opinion is the war which has now been carried on for nearly a year and his desertion of the Boer cause should make clear to his fellow-burghers that it is useless to continue the struggle any longer.

"'It is probably unknown to the inhabitants of the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony that nearly 15,000 of their fellow subjects are now prisoners of war, not one of whom will be released until those now under arms against us surrender unconditionally.

"'The burghers must be cognizant of the fact that no intervention in their behalf can come from any of the great powers, and, further, that the British Empire is determined to complete the work which has already cost so many lives and carry to a conclusion the war declared against her by the late governments of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, a war to which there can be only one ending.'"

Lord Roberts' proclamation then points out that with the exception of the small area which Gen. Botha is defending the war has degenerated into irregular operations which must be brought to an early conclusion, and concludes:

"The means I am compelled to adopt are those which the customs of war prescribe as applicable to such cases. They are ruinous to the country, entail endless suffering to the burghers and their families, and the longer this guerrilla warfare continues the more vigorously must they be enforced."

EAST SIDERS NOT SATISFIED

Figuring on the School Census—They Expected Their Population to Number 35,000.

Wonderful is the stride East St. Louis has made in population within the last ten years. The official figures given out at Washington show that the annex to this metropolis across the river now has 29,665 inhabitants as against 15,169 in 1890. This is an increase in inhabitants of 14,486, or over 95 per cent.

Though this record has not been surpassed by any other city in the west, the figures are nevertheless disappointing to the people of East St. Louis. Figuring from the last school census, they expected that the total would be in the neighborhood of 35,000.

Between 1880 and 1890, the increase in population was only 65 per cent.

The population by wards now is: Ward 1, 1045; ward 2, 4929; ward 3, 2164; ward 4, 4276; ward 5, 5053; ward 6, 4235; ward 7, 7953.

BABY SCALDED TO DEATH

Joseph William Stehlin Played With a Washing Machine and Was Fatally Injured.

Joseph William Stehlin, 2-year-old son of Joseph O. Stehlin, of 2832 South Second street, died Friday morning as the result of accidental injuries received last Tuesday morning.

The child was scalded by a stream of boiling water from a patent washing machine. Mrs. Stehlin was using the machine on the porch in the rear of the house.

While her back was turned the baby toddled over to the machine and pulled out a wooden exhaust plug. The mother was attracted by the child's screams. When she turned she saw him lying on the porch directly beneath the steady flow of hot water. She summoned her husband who carried the child into the house and notified a doctor. The little fellow's condition became worse Thursday night. The Coroner has been notified of the death and an inquest will be held.

NO ALLEY LIGHT DURING WINTER

Residence Alleyways to Be in Darkness.

NO FUNDS TO PAY FOR IT.

BIG DEFICIENCY COMING IN APPROPRIATION.

When Welsbach Mantles Are Placed the Alley Lighting Will Be Stopped, as There Is No More Money.

St. Louis will have no alley lighting of any kind the coming winter so far as the residence district of the city is concerned.

Supervisor of City Lighting O'Reilly now announces that the funds which will be available for lighting purposes from the present time to April 1, 1901, will fall considerably short of providing for street lighting, and that the installation of lamps in the alleys is out of the question.

When the present plan of electric lighting for the business district of the city and gas mantle lighting for the residence district was devised, it was the plan to have the alleys in each district lighted in the same manner as the streets. This is now being done in the business district, where incandescent lamps light the alleys nightly, but it will be a long while before any mantle lamps will be placed in the alleys of the residence district.

The Laclede Gaslight Co., which until Sept. 1 held the contract for lighting the city north of Washington avenue, is keeping the alley lamps burning as a relief measure in neighborhoods which are otherwise dark, but when the mantle lamps are installed on the streets this service will cease and the alleys will be dark.

The shortage in funds for lighting, which will cause the city to run behind after paying for the fractional service which the Welsbach company is now rendering, is due to a miscalculation on the part of the ways and means committee of the Council in making up the Carroll appropriation bill. The committee took as the basis of its estimate the terms of the city's contract with the Kern Gaslight Co., which had been annulled some time before. This amount was much smaller than the sum which the city had later contracted to pay the Welsbach company for taking up the work on which the Kern company had "fallen down."

If the Welsbach company had furnished a complete service from Sept. 1 the deficit in the lighting funds for the fiscal year would be a heavy one and Supervisor O'Reilly says that even with the present partial service on the residence streets and with the utter absence of alley lighting, a deficit will appear at the end of the year.

The boundaries within which Welsbach lamps are burning have been expanded somewhat in the two weeks since the service commenced, and the lights now extend to Keokuk street on the south, while the corner of Thirteenth and Tyler streets is the northern extremity of lighting.

Meanwhile the moon has about withdrawn its assistance. It is due to rise at 9:58 o'clock Friday night, at 10:54 Saturday night and at 11:52 Sunday night.

ANTHRACITE COAL ADVANCE

Fifty Cents a Ton Additional the First Effect of the Order on Coal Miners to Strike.

Anthracite coal advanced in price throughout the city Friday morning from $6.75 to $7.25 per ton. It will go higher, local dealers admit, should the Pennsylvania anthracite coal miners strike Monday, as they have been ordered to do.

Discussing the effect that such a strike would have on St. Louis, President Edward Devoy of the Devoy & Feuerborn Coal Co. said to the Post-Dispatch Friday:

"Nearly all the local coal dealers have more orders on their books for anthracite coal right now than they can fill. Should the miners go out, the natural result will be for the local dealers to protect their supply—which would mean an increase in price.

"But the danger from such a strike is not as serious in St. Louis as some people think. St. Louis burns annually only about 225,000 tons of anthracite coal, as against two million tons of soft coal. The larger portion of the public does not burn anthracite coal.

"Besides, there are about 100,000 tons of anthracite here now. And, further, it will be six or eight weeks before fires will become generally necessary."

ONE MORE DAY TO REGISTER

Saturday Noon Will Be the Last Hour for Voters Who Desire to Vote at Coming Primaries.

Friday is the last full day on which the names of voters registering at the City Hall will be placed on the primary books.

With the closing of the election commissioners' office at noon Saturday, the primary lists will also close, and no voter registering after that time will be allowed to vote at the primary of his party unless his name was on the books of the last primaries and he has since made no change in residence.

"Our biggest rush is likely to come Saturday morning," said Secretary Hobiltzelle, "although we have more work than we can handle right now. Voters should understand that registration at this office will continue until Oct. 6, although no names will be placed on the primary books after Saturday noon."

FELL OFF THE BRIDGE

WILLIAM FLAGER CANNOT DESCRIBE THE ACCIDENT.

WAS ON A PASSENGER TRAIN.

Awoke Friday Morning Under the Bridge With a Gash in His Forehead and Many Bruises.

The last thing William Flager, a paper hanger of 809 North Seventh street, knew Thursday night he was crossing the river on the Merchants' bridge, aboard a Big Four passenger train.

The first thing he knew Friday morning was that he was lying near a pile of old lumber at the side of the bridge approach, a deep gash in his forehead and numerous bruises about the head and body.

Friday morning about 9 o'clock Flager walked into the City Hospital. He had come from the bridge to the dispensary on a street car. Dr. Voerster stitched his wound and Flager was taken the the City Hospital. He will be detained until the police investigate. Flager said he had been working in Alton and was on his way home.

"I had not been drinking, as I never drink," he declared. "I don't know whether some one pushed me off the train or I fell off. I believe it was the latter. I can't account for it."

HAS A MANIA FOR KISSING

Gigantic New Jersey Farmer, Though Insane, Selected Only Young and Peachy Girls for His "Osculisms."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 14.—James McGinn, a gigantic farmer, suddenly became afflicted last Monday with a mania for kissing. McGinn did his kissing with nice discrimination. He chose only young, blooming and peachy girls.

McGinn had a field day Monday, for he went about his osculatory business with some discretion. But on Tuesday and Wednesday and Thursday he threw discretion to the winds. He emerged from his home early this morning, wondering whom he should kiss first, when a constable arrested him. The moment he was placed in a cell McGinn fell into a trance. When revived he became violent. He had to be strapped to his cot. The doctors have not yet diagnosed his mania.

HONOR AFTER DEATH

VIRGINIANS WILL BURY COL. PEYTON'S REMAINS.

S. W. COBB ORDERS FUNERAL.

Body of the Gallant Old Ex-Confederate Soldier Will Rest in the Wesleyan Cemetery.

Virginians in St. Louis will give a suitable burial to the remains of Col. H. E. Peyton, the gallant old Confederate soldier, who died at the City Hospital Friday.

Ex-Congressman Seth W. Cobb, a son of the Old Dominion, called at the City Hospital Friday morning and notified Dr. Nietert, the superintendent, that he would arrange for the interment of Col. Peyton's remains. Later Undertaker M. H. Alexander, another native of Virginia, offered to give the remains a proper burial.

Dr. Nietert suggested that he confer with Mr. Cobb. Mr. Alexander did so and found that the former had already arranged with the Wagoner Undertaking Co. to inter the remains in the Wesleyan Cemetery, on the Olive street road.

"I didn't know Col. Peyton," Alexander remarked to Mr. Cobb, "but in my county (Augusta) there are plenty of Peytons and I suppose he is related to them. I was willing to bury him, 'hough, as soon as I read that he was a Virginian. I could not see a Virginian buried as a pauper.

"Nor I," answered the ex-congressman, "even though I didn't know him. But I knew Col. Peyton slightly. He had called on me since coming to St. Louis and I know that he was all that the documents in his pockets declare him to have been."

Col. Peyton was an aide on Gen. Robert E. Lee's staff during the civil war. Later he was executive secretary of the United States Senate. More recently he lived in Texas, whence he came here in search of employment. He was found unconscious at Seventh and Pine streets, Wednesday, and sent to the City Hospital. He never revived. After his death, papers in his pockets revealed his former prominence.

A MISSOURI GIRL'S MONEY

Inherited a Fortune and Now Finds Difficulty in Getting It From Her Attorney.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Matilda Davies, a young woman of Mountain Grove, Mo., who recently came into a fortune, has brought suit in the Supreme Court here against Edward Devoe, her former counsel. A part of the property left to Miss Davies consisted of real estate in this city and Westchester County, New York. It was sold in a suit in partition, and the share of Miss Davies was fixed at $12,486.72, which Devoe collected for her.

Miss Davies alleges that Devoe, after collecting $2434.67 for his services, unlawfully retained $2186.72 additional.

Devoe admits that he retained the amount, but alleges that it was in accordance with an oral agreement he made with Miss Davies.

PEARLS FROM FISHES' SCALES

Frenchman Will Use Outer Armor of Alewives at Summerville, N. Y., for Manufacture of Gems.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SUMMERVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Pearls from the scales of alewives, which abound in Lake Ontario, are to be made here by M. Leuret of France. He is the most extensive manufacturer of artificial pearls in the world.

The alewife was originally a salt water fish, but after the deposit of 680,000 herring in Lake Ontario 20 years ago it began to appear following the herring, until now the lake contains millions of them and the supply of scales will be inexhaustible. The fish run in immense schools and are very delicate. They are surface feeders.

COUNTY SWEPT BY FIRE.

Losses Near Plymouth, Mass., Will Exceed $150,000.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Sept. 14.—Acre after acre of what was beautiful woodland early in the week is now a stretch of blackened, smoky ground, over which dense smoke hangs in clouds. The brush fires which sprang into activity with Wednesday's gale have simply devastated a great section of Plymouth County, swept away scores of frame buildings, stampeded cattle and horses, killed immense numbers of birds and imperiled the lives of many people. The probable losses are very heavy, far exceeding in the aggregate $150,000 in this county alone.
